DIG FOR BODIES FROZEN IN THE RUINS

HIKERS ENTER CAPITAL

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28. — Through miles of streets lined six deep on both sides, the hiking suffragettes today made their entry into Washington, the goal of their 250-mile hike, which started from New York on February 12.

Washington's greeting to the ten women and three men who had walked day after day on bruised and blistered feet, in rain, snow or sunshine, over roads that at times defied description, was only lukewarm, But nevertheless it was polite and friendlier than any accorded the pilgrims while en-route.

There were cheers, the waving of handkerchiefs and the flaunting of suffragette and American flags, but it was done mostly by women with a leaning toward enfranchisement. But there were no jeers, no insults.

Met by Mounted Escort.

The crowd for the most part seemed simply amused and interested in the little hiking army as it would have been in a circus parade. Rosalie Gardner Jones, the sweet faced, smiling girl who led the army to its goal was the cynosure of all eyes as the army swept along from the city limit to the National suffrage headquarters where it disbanded.

The hiking army was met by an escort of mounted and unmounted police when it reached the city limits and proceeded along Maryland avenue in single file. Finally Mrs. Lucy Neill, mounted on a white charger, and Mrs. Margaret Hopkins Worrell, on a black, raced up and hailed a welcome to the hikers as members of the local suffrage association.

The army halted for fifteen minutes waiting for the rest of the welcoming suffragettes, some of them mounted, some riding in automobiles, who lost themselves in their own town trying to find the army.

When the army passed the White House it halted again and the "original pilgrims," those who walked the entire distance, formed a line by joining their walking sticks and swept along with their little leader a few paces in advance.

"General" Jones Cheered.

"General" Jones made a speech from an automobile outside the headquarters that brought wild applause, but it was necessary for the police to batter away through the crowd to get her back to the building.

Ernest J. Stevens of Philadelphia, who hiked through the entire distance collapsed soon after the suffrage headquarters was reached and was taken away in the ambulance. It was said, however, that his condition was due merely to physical overexertion, and was in no way serious. A luncheon was given the hikers at the hotel suffrage rooms and this is to be followed tonight by a banquet. Many other affairs have been arranged in their honor.

The smile on the little "general's" face was a bit happier as the march neared its end, for she had been notified that the Washington suffragettes, who relieved her yesterday of the message to President Wilson, which she had carried to the national's capital, are to give it back to her and that she is to be accorded he honor of urning i over o he new Presiden.

"It is all a horrible mistake, this idea that we meant to present the letter ourselves," explained Miss Alice Paul of the Congressional Committee today as she rode in an automobile at the head of the hiking army.

Thirteen Finish Long Hike.

There were thirteen hikers—ten women and three men—who made the entire journey on foot. They were: "General" Rosalie Jones, "Colonel" Ida Craft, "Corporal" Martha Klatchkin, Miss Phoebe Hawn, Miss Minerva Crowell, Mrs. George Wend of Albany, N. Y., Miss Emily Doetch of Baltimore, Miss Constance Leupp of Washington, Miss Elizabeth Aldrich of San Diego, Cal.; Mrs. John Boldt of New York and George Milliken Wend of Albany, Ernest J. Stevens of Philadelphia and Norman L. Spee of New York.

The following made the journey on foot from Philadelphia:

Miss Helene Bergmarck of Philadelphia, Mrs. George Lehman of Philadelphia and E. S. Lemmon of Philadelphia. Miss Elizabeth Freeman made the entire trip, driving the "gospel wagon," and Mrs. Alice Schultz drove the official scout car all the way.

Mayor J. F. Hurley to Attend Boxing Bouts at Salem

SALEM, Feb. 28.—Nettled by indirect criticism of "certain city officials" because of the opening of a boxing arena in this city, Mayor John F. Hurley himself will attend the first boxing bouts under the Salem Athletic Association next Monday evening in the North street rink and see if there is anything brutal and objectionable.

This will be the second boxing exhibition he has ever attended, the Mayor says. Mayor Hurley will be present as director of public safety, and will be accompanied by City Marshal Lehan.

His Honor said:

"In 1908 at the request of a man who said there would be a grievous assault committed I visited the rink with the intention of stopping the brutal affair. It was the first boxing match I ever saw. They had big pillows on their hands and couldn't hurt each other if they tried.

"There seems to be a mistaken idea that I have granted a permit for boxing. I have done no such thing. I haven't the right. The club is incorporated and gets its right to conduct athletic exhibitions from the State, under certain restrictions. I have instructed the city marshal to see that the provisions of the club's incorporation are lived up to."

SENATE COMMITTEE FOR 2 BATTLESHIPS

Harvard and Yale Submit New Plans for British College Meet

NEW HAVEN, Feb. 28.—In opening formal negotiations for the proposed American English track meet the track associations of Yale and Harvard have agreed to submit to the English universities the following petition regarding the proposed meet:

That there be eleven instead of nine; namely, the 100-yard dash, 400-yard dash, 120-yard hurdles, high jump, broad jump, hammer throw, 880-yard run, mile run three-mile run, and two of the following three events: 220-yard dash, 200-yard hurdles, or shot put.

In accordance with the English demands it was agreed to change the two mile run to three miles. That two places count and possibly three, instead of only one as in the past.

An important problem in connection with the proposed meet has been solved by the fact that in the Spring the fifteenth anniversary of the Oxford Cambridge dual meet will be celebrated. From the proceeds of this event the English team will be financially able to make the trip to America.

J. S. Stewart, 1913 S, is the only Yale undergraduate who competed in the last international meet, which was held in 1911. Harvard has several, among whom are Captain [illegible] Cummings and T. Cable.

M'DEVITT SILENT ON BRIBERY

Who tried to bribe State Senator John L. McDevitt of Quincy?

Senator McDevitt today refused to make public the name of the man who he says told him that there would be $300 in it for him (McDevitt) if he voted for a bill.

McDevitt says he has found that the man had no authority to make this offer.

The Legislature is determined to find out all that McDevitt knows. McDevitt legislators planned methods at getting McDevitt to tell what he knows. McDevitt has consulted counsel, and stands firm.

Committee Learns Nothing.

The joint Legislative Committee on Rules held a hearing, but learned nothing from McDevitt. Now the committee intends to ask the Legislature for authority for a complete housecleaning graft and bribe hearing.

If the committee has its way witnesses will be summoned, lobbyists questioned, and things will hum on Beacon Hill with a big wholesale graft and bribery investigation going on in full blast.

Now is the time, some legislators declared today, to find out once for all:

Are members of the Legislature bribed by money for their votes on bills which corporations want killed or passed?

Do lobbyists hand out money for votes?

Who are the money-paying lobbyists?

What are the money-paying bribing corporations?

Says Statement Was True.

The committee spent an hour yesterday striving to obtain some basis of fact from McDevitt for his statement. He was invited before the committee at the close of the day's session and appeared with Senator John H. Mack of North Adams who acted in an advisory way as counsel. Mr. McDevitt read this statement:

> After consultation with Senator Mack in this matter I desire to make the following statement:
> The statements I made in Quincy as have been reported, were practically true so far as they were then within my knowledge; but on further investigation I found that the person who spoke to me as he did, had no authority to do so or to offer any bribe to any member of the Legislature.

When Senator McDevitt had completed the reading of his statement, President Greenwood said: "Is there anything further that you desire to say?"

Senator McDevitt—I have nothing further to say.

President Greenwood—Then we are to assume that someone did offer you a bribe?

McDevitt—There is my statement.

Speaker Cushing—I notice that the newspaper article states that you said the offer came from a Representative from Boston. Now that interests me somewhat.

McDevitt—I only knew that the man was not a member of the Senate, and when I saw him walking around the corridors without a hat I assumed that he was a representative.

President Greenwood—Are we to assume that you did not know the man, and that you assumed from the fact that he wore no head covering that he was a Representative?

Senator McDevitt nodded.

President Greenwood—Is it a fact that you did not know him?

McDevitt—I didn't think I did.

President Greenwood—Is it a fact that you were offered a bribe?

McDevitt—I think my statement covers all that I care to say.

CASTRO INVITED TO WILSON EXERCISES

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—President-elect Wilson has invited Cipriano Castro, former President of Venezuela, to attend the inauguration. Castro will leave Havana tomorrow for Washington, and will return to Cuba within a few days, according to State Department advices from Minister Beaupre today.

5,000 GIRLS NOW OUT IN BIG STRIKE

A general strike of 9,000 women and girls employed in over 200 garment factories of Boston began at 10 o'clock today, following strike orders served by pickets from the Ladies' Garment Workers' Union.

The 9,000 called out today are operators on waists and skirts [illegible] women and children.

Union officials assert that all the 9,000 will be out before the day is over and that the strike may spread to take in 3,000 cloak and suit makers.

Five thousand girls went out on the stroke of 10 o'clock and the remainder, the union officials say, will follow. A little army of girls marched from the shops where they had quit work, down Washington street to headquarters at No. 750. Platoon after platoon marched through the street and were cheered by union men and women from the windows, cars and street corners.

Overflow Meeting.

At union headquarters hall there were so many girls that an overflow meeting was held at the [illegible] garment workers' strike headquarters next door. In entering the halls the street became so congested that a detail of police and two mounted officers were called to keep the way clear for passing trolley cars.

Mrs. W. Z. Ripley, wife of the Harvard professor of economics, Rev. F. O. Williams, pastor of the Maverick Church, East Boston, and Miss Josephine Casey, a New York strike leader, addressed the girls.

It is charged that in two shops, the Star Waist Company, No. 611 Washington street, and the Novelty Waist Company, No. 85 Essex street, the doors were locked against the girls and that the managers insisted on making speeches to the girls. Upon threats of breaking windows, it was stated, the doors were opened.

The strikers demand more pay, sanitary shops, equalized work, closed shops, union inspection and other improvements in their means of livelihood.

The nine thousand workers in the shirtwaist and dressmaking trades received red slips of paper as they passed into the shops to go to work today.

EXPERT TESTIFIES AGAINST WRENN

HALIFAX, N. S., Feb. 28.—A biological examination of stains on garments identified as belonging to Jack Wrenn, held here on a charge of the murder of James S. Hamilton at Hinsdale, N. H., show them to be from human blood. This statement was made today at a further hearing on the extradition case by Dr. MacLellan, an expert.

Further adjournment was made until next Wednesday, when Judge Wallace expects to close the matter.

Wilson Near Death by Wreck on Way to Visit His Dentist

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 28.—President-elect Wilson escaped possible injury or death in a train wreck by the narrow margin of five minutes today.

As it turned out, the only ill effect the President-elect suffered was a delay of forty minutes in reaching here from Princeton to see his dentist.

The train immediately ahead of the one in which Mr. Wilson was riding broke a rail at Tacony, a station near Philadelphia. A track walker discovered the broken rail just five minutes before Mr. Wilson's train passed.

The train bearing the President-elect was flagged and later proceeded on a freight track. Owing to the great speed at which it was traveling, the President-elect's train would undoubtedly have been wrecked, as the break in the rail was ten inches long.

Cashier of Dedham Gas Company Held For Stealing Money

Chester A. Paul, living at No. 155 Massachusetts avenue, Boston, was arrested today on a charge of larceny from the Dedham and Hyde Park Gas Company, for whom he was employed as cashier. It is charged that Paul has been taking money from the company by false entries for the past three years.

The warrant charges that the cashier took $3,200 in all. He will be arraigned in Dedham tomorrow.

Paul is married and has a family.

Girl of 19 Seeks Death by Gas, Won't Explain Mystery

Grace Phipps, an attractive nineteen-year-old girl, attempted to commit suicide by inhaling illuminating gas and was found unconscious early today in a room she and another girl had hired in the lodging house at No. 9 Ringold street, South End. She is at the City Hospital and is expected to recover.

Miss Phipps refused to tell the physicians why she tried to end her life and it was only through fear of arrest that she told the police her name and address. It is said by friends she had quarrelled with a young man with whom she was infatuated, and heart-broken, wanted to die.

The girl is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arba Phipps of No. 115 Union Park street, South End, and is the oldest of five children. She had not been living at home, but supported herself by working in candy factories.

MILLION LOSS IN OMAHA FIRE

OMAHA, Neb., Feb. 28.—With an appalling loss of life, the Dewey Hotel, a four-story brick structure in the heart of the business district and one block from the Hotel Paxton, the largest hostelry in Omaha, was destroyed by fire today.

The fire smouldered for hours before it burst out and was discovered by a passing watchman. More than seventy-five persons were in the building, and the police and firemen believe that the loss of life will reach sixty. Conservative estimates place the loss of life between thirty and fifty.

The hotel was so crowded, because of the automobile show, that cots had been placed in many of the corridors. These impeded both the rescuers and guests who tried to escape. The full number of dead may never be known.

Ruins Collapse, Bodies in Ice.

The entire interior of the building collapsed and the water poured in by the firemen was frozen. Rescuers were put to work with axes in an effort to chop their way to the imprisoned bodies of the dead.

Terrible scenes marked the destruction of the hotel, which was a firetrap, filled with guests, who were seen pleading for rescue at the windows of their rooms, only to fall back into the flames, stifled by the smoke and terrific heat.

The fire at one time threatened to spread all through the business district, but was controlled within the block in which it started, at the corner of Thirteenth and Farnam streets.

The register was destroyed and the work of checking up the list of dead was extremely difficult.

The freezing temperature made the work of the firemen difficult and the flames spread rapidly.

The dead so far as identified are:

5 DEATH CASES HEARD IN TWO DAYS IN SALEM

SALEM, Feb. 28.—The hearing of five murder cases within two days is a record in court procedure that was made today and yesterday by Judge Joseph F. Quinn of the Essex County Superior Court. After presiding at the Dorr trial yesterday Judge Quinn today heard four other murder cases.

The case of Mrs. Jessie M. Chapman of Lynn, indicted for the murder of Mrs. Eva F. Ingalls in Lynn last March, was postponed until April to allow insanity experts more time to consider the case.

Nicholas Tsoukiaris of Peabody, indicted for the murder of George Kasiures, his most intimate chum, was sent to the Danvers Insane Asylum for life.

The trial of Marsoob Castarian, charged with murdering his wife in Lynn last March, was delayed today because of the absence of an Armenian interpreter.

MAY CHANGE COURSE OF MONUMENT RIVER

BUZZARDS BAY, Feb. 28.—The Cape Cod Canal will be opened for shipping in the Summer of 1914, in the opinion of officials in charge of its construction. The engineers are considering a plan to change the course of Monument River, diverting its waters through the canal so that the stream will empty into Cape Cod Bay instead of Buzzards Bay as at present. Should the plan be executed, it then would be possible to excavate to a twenty-five-foot level instead of sea level, as is now being done.

Salem Church Divorces "Trial Divorce" Pastor

SALEM, Feb. 28.—The resignation of the Rev. Charles H. Puffer, pastor of the fashionable First Universalist Church, who became prominent because of his trial divorce in 1907 and marriage to his housekeeper last month in New York, has been accepted by the standing committee of the church. The resignation will take effect March 31.

The meeting of the standing committee was largely attended and the motion to receive the resignation passed without objection. Rev. Mr. Puffer will preach on March 8. He may become pastor of the Universalist Church at Reading, Pa.

The Rev. Mr. Puffer's secret marriage to Mrs. Viola E. Empey, his housekeeper, who figured in the "trial divorce" in 1907, is said to have caused considerable friction between the minister and some of his parishioners.

The "trial divorce" from his first wife, Sarah, proved a failure, and subsequently Rev. Mr. Puffer secured a real divorce.

WILSON FAVORS REPEAL OF CANAL EXEMPTION CLAUSE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—President-elect Wilson has made known to Democratic Senate leaders most closely in his confidence that he favors the passage of Senator Root's amendment to the Panama Canal bill, to repeal the provision exempting American coastwise ships from payment of tolls.

It was said today that the new President had made his position plain lately to several Democratic Senators. It was the subject of remark because Senator O'Gorman of New York, who has been regarded as more or less of a spokesman for Mr. Wilson, is a sturdy opponent of the Root amendment and a champion of free passage for American ships.

BRYAN SILENT ON STATE PORTFOLIO

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Feb. 28.—William J. Bryan, who arrived this morning from St. Augustine, to spend the day with his cousin, ex-Governor W. S. Jennings, would make no statement as to the unofficial announcement that he will be appointed Secretary of State. He will leave for Washington tomorrow morning.

WOOLLEY FIGHTING CHEAP SCALE EVIL

The efficiency of the sealer of weights and measures department would be materially increased if legislation could be secured preventing the sale of scales of cheap and faulty construction, according to the annual report of Sealer Charles B. Woolley issued today. He says that Boston has become the dumping ground for scales discarded elsewhere.

at the Dewey for many years; killed jumping from third story window.

MRS. ALICE BONNEVIE, burned to death.

J. H. BEVERLY, employed by the David Cole Oyster Company, burned.

UNIDENTIFIED MAN, died at the Omaha Hospital. He was entirely nude and died within a few minutes after being taken to the hospital. He was terribly burned.

Eight injured were taken to the hospital by 9:30 o'clock. Among the injured are:

The Injured.

MRS. C. E. WILKINS, Omaha; she is hysterical and the physicians believe her mind has been seriously affected. Will probably die.

LINA NELSON, maid to Mrs. Wilkins.

IONA JENNINGS, Omaha.

CLARA NEWMAN, Omaha.

MARK HENNAWAY, Clearwater, Nebraska.

IZZIE STEISS, Omaha, overcome by smoke after he had guided three people to the street.

The Chief's Story.

A. T. Comer of Elmwood, chief of the fire department, was a guest at the hotel.

"When I reached the office on the second floor there were five women there," he said. "I helped one of them to the window at the front of the building. Firemen had already arrived and she was taken down a ladder to the street. The smoke was so dense that I could not return to the office and I do not know what became of the other women," said Mr. Comer.

J. J. Foy, a commission broker, who came from Lincoln on an early train, was one of the first at the fire.

Foy, assisted by four other volunteers, entered the building and carried three guests to the street. The building was erected in 1858. Every room in the hotel was occupied by one or more persons. The structure was of brick with wooden floors and partitions.

The fire evidently smouldered from midnight until nearly daylight. It is believed that the entire building was filled with smoke before those outside discovered the fire and attempted to wake the guests. By that time it was almost impossible to enter the building. The police and firemen believe many of the guests were overcome by the smoke and lay stupefied in their beds until the flames burst through and ended their sufferings.

Jesse D. Mold, manager of the hotel, was on duty until midnight. He was one of the last to leave the place alive. He believes practically everyone who was in the building died. His estimates of the dead run as high as seventy-five.

Terrible Scenes.

Mrs. Bonnevie was seen at a window on the alley side of the structure. She screamed to the crowd for help. A moment later she fell backward into the building. Flames could be seen back of her. Her sister, Mrs. H. C. Hawkins, was with her at the hotel. It was reported that Mrs. Hawkins was saved.

Garrett E. Vilt, night clerk, who went on duty at midnight and rushed from the office when flames made it impossible for him to remain longer, said there were seventy-five or more guests in the place. Of this number he said at least a dozen were women, while possibly thirty were transient guests.

An automobile show, which is being held here, attracted large crowds to the city, and this caused the crowding of the Dewey, as well as the other hotels in the city.

The firemen worked desperately to save the building and to render aid to the guests.

The fire was discovered by Sam Morris and M. P. Ryan, policemen. They were going past the place some time after midnight and saw sparks issuing from a chimney at the rear of the hotel. They notified Manager Nold, who made an investigation in the furnace room. He discovered no fire and so reported to the firemen. It was 4:45 o'clock this morning before the fire broke out. Then Frank Pinnery, a watchman, saw flames. He turned in an alarm. The firemen responded quickly. By that time the whole hotel was blazing and it was almost impossible to render aid to the guests. As they were awakened from their sleep by the flames and smoke they rushed to the windows. Some of them gathered on the third floor and tried to descend.

It was from one of these windows that Cummings jumped. Others, afraid to take the leap, stood waiting. The fire could be seen blazing behind them and in a few minutes the only escape possible was a leap from the windows.

Fall Back Into Flames.

Many of them hesitated and were seen to fall back into the fire. The property loss will reach $1,000,000.

The business buildings affected by the fire, in addition to the hotel are the Raphael Clothing Company, Joseph Lehmer Wall Paper Company, Henry Hillon Liquor Company and the Adams Express Company, the Schmoller, Mueller Piano Company.

One or two vacant store buildings were burned.

The fire started at the corner of Thirteenth and Farnam streets. It broke out first in the rear of the hotel building. It spread rapidly from the hotel to the other buildings in the block, almost in the heart of the business district.

CHICAGO, Feb. 28.—Theatrical Chicago was startled by the report that Nora Bayes is abot to marry Harry Clark, who will take Jack Norworth's place in the cast of "The Sun Dodgers" when that play quits the American Music Hall tomorrow night.

The report comes from the management of the theatre in which Bayes and Norworth have been playing. The aforesaid management is very angry with Nora Bayes and Jack Norworth because Miss Bayes got a divorce from Norworth.

It is said that Clark and Miss Bayes have planned to be married in Kansas City on Monday, when the company opens its engagement there.

HERNANDEZ AND CASTRO PLOT TO TAKE VENEZUELA

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—In the back room of a quiet little restaurant at No. 192 Pearl street, the fate of a republic is being planned.

In the big, peaceful city of New York men are quietly organizing an army for the invasion of Venezuela under Castro, the deposed President, and General Hernandez, warrior and patriot.

The army is already mobilizing on the coast of Venezuela. It awaits only its leaders. Hernandez is in New York; Castro is in Havana. They are both planning expeditions against President Gomez. Whether their expeditions will be in unison or in rivalry even the Venezuelans here do not know.

From Jacksonville and from Mobile ships have carried 10,000 stand of arms, with field guns, machine guns, munitions, men. Within a few days Hernandez is to leave New York.

The bearers were William S. McNary, James A. Gallivan, Acting Mayor Thomas J. Kenney, Charles J. Brady, James H. Carney and George M. Cranitch.

URGES LAW TO STOP GARMENT WORK IN TENEMENT HOUSES

Representative George D. Chamberlain of the Committee on Social Welfare appeared in favor of legislation to prevent the making of clothing in tenement houses. He said that the investigation made by the child labor committee of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, as told in the Sunday AMERICAN, has shown a deplorable condition in some of the tenement districts where mothers and children work together on clothing, often under unsanitary and dangerous conditions.

Director Gettemy of the Bureau of Statistics suggested delay until his department reported its investigation on the subject.

Protest Sale of Browning's Love Notes at Auction

LONDON, Feb. 28.—The coming auction sale of the originals of the poet Browning's love letters, which have already been published in book form, has raised anew the question whether it is proper to sell love letters.

In this case the sale is being effected by an Italian lady friend of the poet's son, who died recently, leaving her the Browning family papers. But people who tolerated without a word of protest the publishing of the contents of these letters now fiercely reprobate the sales of the actual documents.

Marie Corelli says: "I think the sale by auction or otherwise of any private letters whatsoever a disgrace to the vendor and a scandal to the nation."

Baroness Orczy gives this opinion: "A public sale of a man's most intimate letters is a positive outrage. Money seeking vulgarity can go no further."

Stephen Phillips thinks "the letters should certainly not be sold; it is, indeed, to sell cheap what is most dear."

'BAT' NELSON'S WIFE SAYS HE KIDNAPED HER

DENVER, Colo., Feb. 28.—"Bat kidnaped me; yes sir, he did. But I refuse to stay kidnaped. I am going to sue for a divorce."

Mrs. Oscar (Battling) Nelson, formerly Miss Fay King, newspaper cartoonist, announced today that her marriage to Battling Nelson three weeks ago was a mistake.

"I was under great pressure mentally when Bat hurried me to Chicago to be married," she said, "but I discovered my mistake. Bat is all right. He's a mighty nice fellow. I could overlook the cauliflower ears, but as a husband, well—I want no prize fighter in mine. I want a husband that comes home at nights with a dinner bucket in his hand, not a man with flashing diamonds. I want a home of my own. I don't want a husband you can hear coming a block away because of his clothes, whose highest ambition is 'coming back.'"

COLUMBUS DAY IN NEW HAMPSHIRE

CONCORD, N. H., Feb. 28.—As soon as Governor Felker gives his sanction, and it is understood that he will, October 12 of each year will become a legal holiday, under the title of Columbus Day, the Senate having passed yesterday the House bill to that effect.

BETTER EMBASSY FOR U. S. IN PARIS

PARIS, Feb. 28.—The Department of State at Washington has authorized Ambassador Herrick to lease new embassy offices at No. 2 Rue Chaillot, which are in a far better location and much more commodious than the Chancellery in the Avenue Kleber, occupied for so many years. The new offices will be taken over immediately.

TWO-SCORE HURT IN TROLLE YCRASH

WATERBURY, Ct., Feb. 28.—Five were seriously hurt and two-score or more received lesser injuries when a New Haven-bound trolley car leaving this city at 8:30 a. m. today, crowded to the doors with passengers, collided head on at Summit, a small station between here and Cheshire, with a string of work cars loaded with trap rock.

QUICKLY CURES THE WORST BACKACHE

Makes Kidney Troubles, Bladder Disorders and Rheumatic Pains Vanish

It is no longer necessary for any one to suffer with backaching, kidney trouble, have disagreeable bladder and urinary disorders to contend with, or be tortured with rheumatism, stiff joints, and its heart-wrenching pains, for the new discovery, Croxone, quickly and surely relieves all such troubles.

Croxone is the most wonderful remedy yet devised for ridding the system of uric acid and driving out all the poisonous impurities which cause such troubles. It is entirely different from all other remedies. It is not like anything else ever used for the purpose. It acts on the principle of cleaning out the poisons and removing the cause.

It soaks right in through the walls, membranes and linings, like water in a sponge, neutralizes, dissolves and makes the kidneys sift out and filter away all the uric acid and poisons from the blood, and leaves the kidneys and urinary organs strong, healthy and well.

It matters not how long you have suffered, how old you are, or what you have used, the very principle of Croxone is such that it is practically impossible to take it into the human system without results. There is nothing else on earth like it. It starts to work the minute you take it and relieves you the first time you use it.

If you suffer with pains in your back and sides, or have any signs of kidney, bladder troubles, or rheumatism, such as puffy swellings under the eyes or in the feet and ankles, if you are nervous, tired and run down, or bothered with urinary disorders, Croxone will quickly relieve you of your misery. You can secure an original package of Croxone at trifling cost from any first class druggist. All druggists are authorized to personally return the purchase price if it fails in a single case.

Dr. William H. van Allen, of the Church of the Advent, at a luncheon party at the University Club. Mr. Noyes will spend the night at Wellesley.

Dr. Van Allen introduced the poet as the "unofficial poet laureate of England" at the reading Mr. Noyes gave of his poems at the Copley-Plaza Hotel. Later the poet and his wife were the guests of William Dean Howells, the famous author, and afterwards were the guests of Mrs. Thomas Bailey Aldrich.

THEOSOPHISTS CAN'T BREAK $1,000,000 WILL

ATLANTA, Ga., Feb. 28.—Alleged discrimination against heirs who have embraced Theosophy and joined the Theosophist colony at Point Loma, Cal., did not operate to invalidate the will of Major J. F. Hanson, late president of the Central Railroad of Georgia, according to the decision of the Supreme Court today. The will, disposing of an estate worth nearly $1,000,000, had been contested by the testator's daughter and his daughter-in-law, who alleged improper influences exerted by another daughter.

MRS. LYDIG TO QUIT SOCIETY LIFE FOR YEAR

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—Friends of Mrs. Philip Lydig learned today that she is suffering from a nervous breakdown and that she plans to take no active part in social affairs for a year at least. She will leave Monday for a long rest in the Adirondacks, to lead an out-of-door camp life in the pine woods, as prescribed by her physicians.

After several months of absolute quiet in the mountains, Mrs. Lydig contemplates going abroad for a long stay. She has been particularly active in society this Winter, giving several affairs, besides the play, "Judith," which was performed at her home. Her last affair, to prepare for which took several weeks of hard work, was the exhibition of paintings of notable society women for the benefit of the suffrage movement.

Mrs. Lydig's illness, which is said to have been brought about as the result of the many exacting demands made upon her time, was learned through an announcement that she would not march in the suffrage parade in Washington next Monday.

Wilson May Give Negro Ex-Bostonian Plum in Treasury

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—Local leaders of the colored race are elated over reports current here today that Peter J. Smith, a colored chiropodist here, and originally from Boston, will be appointed Deputy Register of the Treasury in Washington.

Letters from President-elect Wilson to Bishop Alexander Walters, of New York, president of the Colored Democratic National League, indicate the colored race will receive greater recognition from the Wilson administration than from any other in the past. Bishop Walters said:

Mr. Wilson is filled with good will for everybody. We are confident he will treat us fairly. There is more than a chance of obtaining the appointment of more colored men to the government service. The position of Deputy Register of the Treasury is now filled by a colored man. The Register also is colored. Both are Republicans appointed by Mr. Taft.

INZ MILHOLLAND DINIES ENGAGEMENT

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—The rumor persistent some time ago that Miss Inez Milholland, the beautiful Portia suffragette, is to become the bride of John Fox, Jr., was revived again today. When Miss Milholland, who leaves today for Washington where she will lead the big suffrage parade there on Monday mounted on a white horse, was asked regarding the report today, she said: "It is absolutely without foundation."

HARRY BLYTHE IS DEAD FROM COLLAR BUTTON

Harry Randolph Blythe, former Dartmouth track star, and well known as a writer of magazine verse, is dead at his home in Swampscott, from blood poisoning caused by a collar button.

He had been ill but a week, and his mother, Mrs. James C. Blythe of Chicago, was hurrying to his bedside, when the news of his death was announced.

It was only in October, last year, that Blythe was married to Miss Lucile Bodwell, daughter of Mrs. Emma Boswell of Lynn, a niece of President Faunce of Brown University, who performed the ceremony at the Washington Street Baptist Church in Lynn.

Mr. Blythe graduated from Dartmouth in 1907, after gaining a track reputation as a member of the team for four years, the winner of the intercollegiate pole jump, and a material point getter. He then took a law course at Harvard, won his degree and was admitted to the bar in 1910.

March Coming in Fair and Colder, Is the Forecast

March is to be ushered in with fair and colder weather.

This was the official edict given out today by Weather Forecaster Smith from his office atop the Federal Building. He expects the mercury will be down to twenty-five above the zero line by early tomorrow morning.

The February storm has gone out to sea. Today the mercury began to rise from 26 degrees to 33 at noon time. Then it began to fall. The rising temperature was caused by the influence of the sun's rays.

Sunday is going to be fair and cold, too. The wind is to be moderate from the west for the next two days, the forecaster says.

LAY NEEDHAM CHURCH FIRE TO SQUIRRELS

Squirrels are believed to have caused a fire which destroyed St. Joseph's Catholic Church at Highland avenue and May street in Needham early today, at a loss of $35,000.

Rev. P. J. Danehy, pastor, and the firemen think that the squirrels, which have frequented the church basement, chewed the insulation from electric wires until the wires were bare to the metal, causing a short circuit.

The fire started near the sanctuary, so that none of the altar fittings or any other articles inside the chancel rail were saved.

But Father Danehy and Father Donahue, who made a quick run to Needham from Newton Upper Falls by automobile, managed with the aid of parishioners to save some pictures and some of the "Stations of the Cross."

The fire was discovered by William Courtney, who gave an alarm. A second alarm was sounded, bringing out all the town apparatus.

The flames had gained such headway that the church was doomed. The low pressure streams could not reach the church roof.

The Needham High School, a brick structure, near the church, was in danger, but escaped damage.

UNTERMYER SEES PLOT TO DISCREDIT MONEY COMMITTEE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—Samuel Untermyer, counsel for the money trust investigating committee, charges today that in all probability a deliberate attempt was being made to discredit the report of the committee, when told that a report was current of a movement in Illinois to disbar him. He dictated the following statement:

"Mr. Untermyer said he had never heard of any such proceedings, and knew nothing about it, but was prepared to believe that anything might be attempted for immediate effect on the money trust report at this time. Coming at this time, he regarded it as a canard intended to influence the effect of the report."

It will be found that the course of events under the Taft administration has made reform easier for Mr. Taft's successor."

SCORES TO BE PROSECUTED IN BUTTER RAID

CHICAGO, Feb. 28.—Recent seizures in Chicago cold storage warehouses of more than 25,000 pounds of butter by revenue agents are expected to result, according to a statement of Federal officials, in a score of prosecutions in the Federal courts.

A report of the seizures and of the findings of Government chemists has been forwarded to the Internal Revenue Department in Washington. The confiscation is the result of an examination of several million pounds of butter stored in seven warehouses. The charge made is adulteration with more than 16 per cent. of water.

Millions of pounds of butter have disappeared from the warehouses since the Government began its investigation. In December there were stored in warehouses here about 25,000,000 pounds, nearly half the actual supply in storage in the United States. Since then four-fifths of the product has been moved from the city. The warehouse owners declared it was moved in the natural course of commerce and that there was no intention to evade inspection.

Manufacturers of butter in Illinois, Ohio, Wisconsin, Iowa, Minnesota and Nebraska may be prosecuted for the alleged violations, it is stated. The penalty is a fine of $5,000 and a tax of ten cents for each pound adulterated. In addition a tax of $600 a year is imposed on those detected in wholesale adulteration.

REBELS GIVE WAY IN FIERCE MEXICAN FIGHT

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 28.—General Hildalgo with 1,500 men and two batteries of artillery gave battle today to 2,000 rebels under Alberto Fuentes, at Aguas Calientes. Heavy street fighting is going on there.

Hildalgo's men, according to report received here today, attacked the city at sunrise, bombarding the rebel positions with field guns and machine guns. Although they outnumbered the government forces the rebels were driven from their outposts and the federals entered the city, taking refuge in various buildings.

Aguas Calientes lies in the State of the same name upon the Mexican Central Railroad and has a population of 90,000. Many of the residents fled when Fuentes' insurgent forces took the town. Alberto Fuentes was formerly the Maderist Governor of the State and refused to recognize the Huerta-Diaz government.

Porfirio Diaz, former President and builder of the Mexican republic, today has responded to the call of his native country.

According to information from a source close to the government, Porfirio Diaz has sent a cablegram to his nephew, Felix Diaz, giving the conditions upon which he will come back to help restore peace and prosperity.

Porfirio Diaz is said to disclaim any ambition to set himself up as the head of the government, saying his sole wish and ambition is to see tranquillity and prosperity restored in his native land before he dies.

There is a plan afoot however among the leaders of the old Diaz party which was swept out of power by Madero to have Porfirio Diaz made president of the republic under the election methods established by Porfirio at the time of his ascendency here.

The plan suggested by Felix Diaz and consented to by Provisional President Huerta provides for making Porfirio Diaz military dictator by proclaiming him commander-in-chief of the army.

If present plans are carried out Porfirio will sail for Vera Cruz from a French port about March 15, and should arrive here before April 1.

General Carranza's Coahuila insurgents have engaged the federal force near Monclova, and at last reports fighting was still going on there. General Aubert, who has been sent against the rebels under Francisco Villa, a Maderist, has been instructed to execute all captured insurgents as bandits.

This same method was employed when Juan Vargas, a government leader in Morelos, captured seventeen followers of Emiliano Zapata, who had refused to swear allegiance to the Huerta-Diaz government, and after executing them sent the following terse message to Huerta: "I have the honor to report the execution of seventeen bandits taken in outlawry and rebellion."

URGE GOETHALS FOR WILSON'S WAR ADVISER

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—A powerful Democratic Senator close to Wilson has been in consultation with Trenton, urging the appointment of Colonel George Washington Goethals as Secretary of War and Dr. William Crawford Gorgas as Surgeon-General of the United States.

The Senator reports the President-elect is much impressed with the suggestion of these eminent men. He believes that if Mr. Wilson has not yet decided upon the war portfolio Goethals may be appointed. He feels sure that if the great engineer had been presented earlier he would have been selected for the post. Mr. Wilson, it is reported, was equally interested in the consideration of Dr. Gorgas.

The presentation of Colonel Goethals' name was accompanied with the argument of his magnificent and effective service as engineer and organizer of the Panama Canal—the vast work he had accomplished with such smoothness, such accuracy and such extraordinary dispatch. Colonel Goethals was instructor in civil and military engineering in the United States Military Academy up to 1888. He was chief of engineers during the Spanish-American War, and afterward member of the Board of Coast and Harbor fortifications—always with conspicuous success. He is a Democrat and the son of a Democrat.

The late advent of Colonel Goethals as a Cabinet possibility is creating something of a sensation in capital circles. The suggestion meets wide an enthusiastic approval among all classes of public men.

Peculiar After Effects of Grip This Year

Leaves Kidneys in Weakened Condition

Doctors in all parts of the country have been kept busy with the epidemic of grip which has visited so many homes. The symptoms of grip this year are very distressing and leave the system in a run-down condition, particularly the kidneys, which seem to suffer most, as every victim complains of lame back and urinary troubles, which should not be neglected, as these danger signals often lead to more serious sickness, such as dreaded Bright's Disease. Local druggists report a large sale on Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, which so many people say soon heals and strengthens the kidneys after an attack of grip. Swamp-Root is a great kidney, liver and bladder remedy, and, being an herbal compound, has a gentle healing effect on the kidneys, which is almost immediately noticed by those who try it. Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., offer to send a sample bottle of Swamp-Root, free by mail, to every sufferer who requests it. A trial will convince any one who may be in need of it. Regular size bottles 50 cts. and $1.00. For sale at all druggists. Be sure to mention this paper.

MRS. MARSHALL BLAMES 'MAN' FOR VOTE CRY

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 28.—Mrs. Marshall, wife of the Vice-President-elect, who passed through here on her way to Washington, blames the American man for thoughtlessness and lack of interest in affairs which make women attempt to right political wrongs. She thinks the suffrage hike to Washington "is too silly for anything." Mrs. Marshall said:

> I don't belong to an anti-suffrage society, because I would not do anything to oppose the vote, if women got it, and I would certainly exercise the right of franchise.
>
> But women have yet to bring about dress reforms and settle the domestic problem before they endeavor to handle men's affairs.

The Vice President-elect declared, speaking of intervention in Mexico:

> I would spend my last dollar for an American citizen's life, but I would not spill one drop of blood to save an American citizen's dollar.
>
> It is very difficult to say what would constitute a reason for intervention in Mexico.
>
> There are charges that a syndicate heavily interested in Mexico is fomenting the trouble, also that along the border there will be some Americans killed to force intervention by the United States.
>
> My own view is that the troubles in Mexico are due to the fact that there is an upper crust and an under crust, but no middle class in that country.

PIERCE SCION DARING AVIATOR IN THE BALKANS

Samuel S. Pierce, grandson of S. S. Pierce who founded the large Boston business house which bears his name, is now doing gallant work as an aviator with the the Balkan allies. Though rich and a holder of a large interest in the firm founded by his grandfather, he has chosen the life of a military aviator, fraught with many perils.

Reports which have reached Boston say that the young man performed some daring reconnoissances of the Turkish lines in his aeroplane before the recent armistice and won the special praise of the highest Bulgarian officers. It is also reported that he was one of the fliers who accomplished the feat of dropping bombs into Adrianople.

The news that young Pierce—he is twenty-six—had abandoned the agreeable life of Paris in order to plunge into the hardships and dangers of the Balkan war was a surprise to all who knew him. They had known that he had taken up aviation as a pastime, but it never entered their heads that he would make it a business in the grim reality of war.

With the news of Pierce's success in the new aerial warfare comes word of grave fears that his venturesome feats may have finally cost him his life. Since the renewal of hostilities nothing has been heard from him.

Wife is Worried.

Pierce left his young wife, whom he wed after a romantic chase from Denver to London, in Paris, and she is anxious over his fate. His sister, Miss Faith Pierce, who is now at a southern resort, is said to be less worried.

She has written a friend in Boston that it is characteristic of her brother not to let the world know where he is or what he is doing.

Pierce, in fact, is noted among his friends for his modesty, and in such scanty communications as he sent from the lines about Adrianople he made slighting reference to his own exploits. It was only when some of the war correspondents returned to Paris that Pierce's fame among the allies as a daring aviator became known.

It is thought that word would have been received recently from Pierce if he were still with the allies around Adrianople; so it is supposed that he has been sent with the Bulgarian advance before the Tchatalja lines around Constantinople and has been assigned to the terribly dangerous task of reconnoitering from his aeroplane these last defences of the Turkish capital.

In Romantic Courtship.

Pierce's health has forced him to be a stranger to Boston for the last five years. Threatened with tuberculosis he went to live in Colorado Springs. There he figured in a romantic courtship of the daughter of his physician. It is said that the girl's parents objected to the match and sent her abroad to separate the couple. Undaunted by this Pierce trailed her across the continent and the ocean to Europe, there they were quietly married.

Personally, Pierce looks the very opposite of the accepted adventurous type. He is tall and slender, with fair hair and extremely diffident manner. He has a shy, boyish face, looking several years younger that he really is.

LEGISLATORS HURT IN BUDAPEST RIOT

BUDAPEST, Feb. 28.—Rioting between rival political delegations broke out in the Reichsrath today, and in the fighting many were hurt. Five of the Deputies were so badly wounded that they may die. Stones were carried into the building and used as missiles, and many revolver shots were fired.

CASSIDY TELLS PROVIDENCE OF FOOD FRAUDS

PROVIDENCE, Feb. 28.—The largest number that has been present at any lecture since the beginning of the Pure Food show in Infantry Hall, heard Harry P. Cassidy of Boston tell some of his adventures as the "Doctor Wiley of Pennsylvania."

Mr. Cassidy's eventful life in Philadelphia, where he "fought the food swindlers and food cheaters to a standstill and more," included trailing a wagon through the street of the city of Brotherly Love at midnight in midwinter. The wagon had aboard a load of rotten eggs in milk cans which were to be used in the manufacture of cakes by a company that was large enough to require seventy-five delivery wagons.

Mr. Cassidy told how he had seen, after a long fight, this same company sent into bankruptcy through the publicity given their manufacture.

"It is only publicity that will get us pure food," said the speaker. "These men who adulterate food care nothing for fines, and they laugh at jail sentences, but one line of newspaper publicity sets them whining.

"The city of Boston and the State of Massachusetts have the most antiquated pure food laws that can be found anywhere. Massachusetts is the food-dopers' paradise, and while I don't know anything about the condition in Rhode Island, I do know that if your laws are not the strictest possible you are also in the clutches of these men who will sell anything for anything, notwithstanding what the label may say.

"I have prosecuted, while chemist for the State of Pennsylvania, candy manufacturers for the manufacture of stuff which contained glue. Yes, it was the same stuff that is used to stick paper on walls, but nobody knew the difference until they were told.

"We arrested men in Philadelphia who were advertising olive oil as direct from Italy. One man told how his brother in Italy picked the olives from the trees with his own hands and did not use the ones that had fallen to the ground. But when these oils were examined they were found to be nothing but plain cottonseed oil with never a trace of olive oil, and the only thing Italian about them was the gaudy label on the cans.

"The women must do the work in this fight for pure food. The men have other things to do. The women of Boston have given support to the fight for unadulterated food and have even talked before the Legislature about it. I think the women of Providence are giving evidence of their intention to have pure food by their work at this show."

CHILDREN HATE CASTOR OIL, UGH!

Delicious "Syrup of Figs" Best for Their Little Stomachs, Liver and Waste-Clogged Bowels.

Look back at your childhood days. Remember the physic that mother insisted on—castor oil, calomel, cathartics. How you hated them, how you fought against taking them.

With our children it's different. The day of harsh physic is over. We don't force the liver and 30 feet of bowels now; we coax them. We have no dreaded after effects. Mothers who cling to the old form of physic simply don't realize what they do. The children's revolt is well-founded. Their little stomachs and tender bowels are injured by them.

If your child is fretful, peevish, half sick, stomach sour, breath feverish and its little system full of cold; has diarrhoea, sore throat, stomach-ache; doesn't eat or rest well—remember—look at the tongue; if coated, give a teaspoonful of Syrup of Figs, then don't worry, because you surely will have a well, smiling child in a few hours.

Syrup of Figs, being composed entirely of luscious figs, senna and aromatics simply, cannot be harmful. It sweetens the stomach, makes the liver active and thoroughly cleanses the little one's waste-clogged bowels. In a few hours all sour bile, undigested fermenting food and constipated waste matter gently moves on and out of the system without griping or nausea.

Directions for children of all ages, also for grown-ups, plainly printed on the package.

By all means get the genuine. Ask your druggist for the full name, "Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna," prepared by the California Fig Syrup Co. Accept nothing else.

PHYSICIANS PUT J. P. MORGAN ON STRINGENT DIET

By CAMILO CIANFARRA.

CAIRO, Egypt, Feb. 28.—J. Pierpont Morgan has been placed on a strict diet by his physicians, Dr. Tribe and Professor Bastianelli. The financier's food will be prepared by a special cook, who will follow recipes given to him by the doctors.

Mr. Morgan must smoke only three cigars a day.

In a word, he must renounce the pleasures of the table. His physicians say his exceptionally strong physique assures him of many years of life provided he abstains from rich food and wines and leads the simplest and most regular existence. His physicians told him that if he disobeyed their orders he might bring on a relapse of his illness with serious consequences.

Former United States Senator Nelson W. Aldrich of Rhode Island today visited Mr. Morgan, who said he was feeling better than he had for a week. He prepared to go driving this afternoon but as the weather was uncertain he returned from the veranda of Shepheard's Hotel to his apartment.

Mr. Morgan has been very fond of lobster served al a Maryland. He had a bungalow at Newport where a colored chef cooked lobsters exactly to please him.

He has been in the habit of smoking big, black cigars, and a good many of them a day.

ROME, Feb. 28.—J. P. Morgan paid Professor Bastianelli a fee of $20,000 before the distinguished specialist as much as felt his patient's pulse. In Cairo, when he summoned Dr. Bastianelli from Rome, Mr. Morgan wrote to him thus:

> My health having caused some little anxiety to my friends since arriving in Cairo, and bearing in mind the benefit derived on recent occasions from your advice, I should be glad if you would join me here for a few days until I make definite arrangements for future plans. I inclose herewith a check, which I beg you will accept, in recognition of your valuable services.
>
> Yours sincerely,
> J. PIERPONT MORGAN.

The check inclosed was a draft for $20,000 on J. P. Morgan & Co., New York.

Wonder what upset your stomach—which portion of the food did the damage—do you? Well, don't bother. If your stomach is in revolt; if sour, gassy and upset, and what you just ate fermented into stubborn lumps; your head dizzy and aches; belch gases and acids and eructate undigested food, breath foul, tongue coated—just take a little Diapepsin and in five minutes you will wonder what became of the indigestion and distress.

Millions of men and women today know that it is needless to have a bad stomach. A little Diapepsin occasionally keeps the stomach regulated and they eat their favorite foods without fear.

If your stomach doesn't take care of your liberal limit without rebellion; if your food is a damage instead of a help, remember, the quickest, surest, most harmless relief is Pape's Diapepsin, which costs only fifty cents for a large case at drug stores. It's truly wonderful—it digests food and sets things straight so gently and easily that it is astonishing. Please don't go on and on with a weak, disordered stomach; it's so unnecessary.

Watch for First Coupon in Big Pennant Offer

Boys, girls, grown-ups! DON'T FORGET THAT PENNANT.

Haven't you been to visit a friend sometime, seen a gay collection of college pennants adorning his cozy den, and then vowed that you, too, would get some like them, and lend that same air of attractiveness to your own den? Of course you have.

Well, now is your chance to get it. Buy next Sunday's AMERICAN and you will find a coupon which, with twenty cents, will entitle you to one. The pennants are worth fully a dollar. Cut the coupon out and bring it to the AMERICAN Promotion Department, No. 5 Winthrop square.

Sunday's pennant is to be Harvard. Next Sunday there will be another college pennant, and the next Sunday another, and so on, until there will be a big collection.

GALLONS OF MILK SPILLED IN CRASH

A two-horse milk wagon, owned by the H. B. Hood Company, and driven by James Lanigan, of No. 16 Eastman road, Somerville, crashed into an outward-bound Boston Elevated car, at the corner of Concord square and Tremont street, today. The wagon was demolished, and gallons of milk were lost. The vestibule of the car was splintered, but Lanigan escaped with slight injuries, and went to his home.

'ALL OUT' EDICT BRINGS PEACE IN PEST HOUSE

Peace reigns today in the Swampscott woods.

Special Officer Frank Bradford won't have to stay two weeks in the Lynn Health Board's pest house there, after all.

Bradford, who entered the pest house to quell a disturbance, was promptly told by the Health Board members he had better not come out just yet, until they saw whether he had contracted smallpox. Bradford was "fit to be tied." Now Dr. Morse, the State's smallpox expert, has cut the Gordian knot.

Dr. Morse decreed it would be all right for Bradford to emerge from exile. He also told the two smallpox patients and the two nurses, Mrs. Emma Carter and Mrs. Katharine Fessendens they need not linger, either.

The action by Dr. Morse is a result of a telephone message he received from one of the nurses alleging that the patients were being kept at the pest house when they were both cured and able to go home. Bradford's friends had also pictured the monotony of his life there.

The Lynn Health Board, which has been busy the past few weeks, what with the patients not wanting to stay in the pest house and police reports of some one smashing the windows there, and Bradford's plight, etc., is breathing easy today.

Does Your Child Lie? Don't Worry; He May Be a Novelist

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—"That a child is an inveterate liar does not reflect upon its moral character. It may mean only that the child will grow up to be a poet or a novelist.

This statement would bring relief to parents whose children tell whoppers," unless they do not care to have poets in the family. For it was announced today as the declaration of Dr. Rowland G. Freeman, one of the experts delivering lectures on the training of children under the auspices of the Public Health Education Committee of the Medical Society of New York. Dr. Freeman accounted for his statement by saying that "children have such a high degree of imagination that they distinguish between truth and fiction with difficulty."

Besides these attractions there are the excellent materials, cutting and proportioning and the inside suit goodness of making and tailoring.

The more elaborate suit (pictured) has a square cornered cutaway coat with tuxedo revers and attractive embroidered eponge collar. Sizes 14, 16 and 18.

Tailored Cutaway vs. Draped

The two dominating notes in Misses' Spring Coats

—The tailored coats in most cases show soft roll collars and sharp cutaway effects.

—The draped coats follow the tendency of the drape in skirts and are a fashion diametrically opposed to the tailored modes.

NOT OPPOSED TO BRANDEIS, FOSS STATES

Governor Foss denied today that he was opposed to the selection of Louis D. Brandeis for the Cabinet. He said:

I have neither directly nor indirectly authorized anybody to say to President Wilson that I do not believe that Mr. Brandeis should be selected for the Cabinet.

As a matter of fact, I have had no communication at any time with Mr. Wilson since he was elected President. I believe Mr. Brandeis is a very able man. Governor Wilson should be permitted to make his own selections for the Cabinet, without interference of any kind. It is a family affair. Necessarily the men who surround Mr. Wilson in the Cabinet must be in sympathy with his views. I consider the Cabinet places as personal appointments.

Thomas P. Riley, chairman of the Democratic State Committee, said today that he considered it his duty as head of the organization in Massachusetts, to oppose the selection of any Republican from this State for the Cabinet, or for any other office. He declared he believed Brandeis would be in the Cabinet. He said:

During my interview with President-elect Wilson at Trenton, I presented a certificate from the Boston Board of Election Commissioners showing that Mr. Brandeis is a Republican. I construe it to be my duty as chairman of the Democratic State Committee of Massachusetts to oppose the appointment of any Republican during this administration. I have personally no [illegible]. On the contrary, I believe him to be the ablest man in New England.

BONCI WILL APPEAR.

Mr. Mudgett, manager of Symphony Hall has received a telegram from Haensel & Jones of New York, Mr. Bonci's agents, that Mr. Bonci is quite well and will fill the engagement.

HEAD, HANDS, FACE MASS OF PIMPLES

Must Have Itched Terribly, Scratched Awfully. Formed One Solid Sore. Fretful and Did Not Sleep. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Cured.

R. F. D. No. 24½, Bethel, Conn.—"My baby's trouble began at about two months of age. His head and hands and face were a mass of little pimples at first. They were like a little pinhead, but quickly changed to a mass of pus, which must have itched terribly, as the baby scratched himself awfully. Then they formed one solid sore, which made my baby horrid to look at. He was fretful and did not sleep hardly at all neither day nor night. I tried different remedies without any benefit and finally saw the advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and thought we would try them. I used Cuticura Soap and Ointment just as the directions for about three months and they worked wonders for him. Cuticura Soap and Ointment completely cured him. He is as fair as a lily now." (Signed) Mrs. Geo. H. Pearson, Apr. 11, 1912.

When you buy a fine toilet soap think of the advantages Cuticura Soap possesses over the most expensive toilet soap ever made. In addition to being absolutely pure and refreshingly fragrant, it is delicately yet effectively medicated, giving you two soaps in one, a toilet and a skin soap at one price. Cuticura Soap (25c.) and Cuticura Ointment (50c.) are sold by dealers throughout the world. Liberal sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. T. Boston."

INTRUDER'S SLAYER SAYS "NOT GUILTY"

Henry A. Wentworth, twenty-five years old, of No. 586 Walnut street, Lynn, pleaded not guilty today in the Lynn Police Court to a charge of manslaughter for having caused the death of Charles Videtto of No. 15 Wyman street, Lynn.

Wentworth shot Videtto, who is thought to have been insane, while the latter was attempting to enter the Wentworth home.

The case was continued by Judge O'Brien until March 6 and Wentworth was held in $5,000 bonds.

It became known today that Videtto had forced his way into another apartment house which is located at Washington avenue and Newton street, and going from door to door, pounded until the occupant was awakened, meanwhile shouting that he must have a revolver as he wanted to kill any children he found in the house.

No Turkey Trotting, Is Order for the Big Tech Ball Tonight

No turkey trot, bunny hug or Texas Tommy, is the orders from headquarters for the Technology freshman battalion hop in Horticultural Hall tonight, but lively Tech men are skeptical about the carrying out of this order unless a whole corporal's guard is on hand. They say that the dance committee made a big mistake in making out the dance order. Instead of a lot of "high brow" music they have picked "Robert E. Lee," "Row, Row," the "Gaby Glide," "At the Devil's Ball," "Everybody Two Step," "Alabama," and so on, and therefore, say the lively ones, the dance committee will have to take the consequences.

Another feature of the ball is the attempt to cut the high cost of dancing. A junior officer figured the whole thing up and posted his calculations as follows: Ticket for myself, $1, the inevitable girl $1, carfare 30 cents, "boiled shirt" 15 cents, clean collar 3 cents, flowers .000; total $2.48.

As seen from the "lineup" no flowers will be allowed. A large number of tickets have been sold and a large attendance is expected. The reception will begin at 8. The officers and freshmen will attend in full uniform, and today the keeper at the South Armory is busy shining up bayonets.

MRS. RANTOUL GETS HOUSE IN JAMAICA PLAIN

Mrs. Lois Burnett Rantoul, who has been awarded the custody of her two children and $150 a month alimony from her husband, Edward L. Rantoul, whom she is suing for divorce, is to live on Forest Hills street, Jamaica Plain, where she has rented a house. With her will live her two daughters. The mother gave up her plan of going to live in New York with her father, Edward Burnett, as a result of the agreement that she must keep the children within the jurisdiction of the Massachusetts courts. Elmwood, Mrs. Rantoul's former home in Cambridge, and the old home of her grandfather, Poet James Russell Lowell, has been leased.

Boston Doctors on Baseball Team, Out for Egyptian Title

Baseball in Egypt tomorrow, with two Greater Boston men on one team. They are Dr. Harold F. Curtis and Dr. A. P. Bonney. Dr. Bonney will catch for the Alexandria nine, and Dr. Curtis will play in the field. They meet the Cairo team for the championship of Africa at Cairo.

Baseball is all the rage in Egypt. Americans from all over Egypt make their way to Cairo for the games. In a letter, Dr. Curtis tells of his life in Cairo. He says:

Boston is not the only baseball city. We have here a team composed of missionaries, Standard Oil officials, Bonney and myself, while the Cairo Y. M. C. A. has one of like nature.

The two teams meet for the African championship title on Saturday, March 1, on the Cairo grounds. Wouldn't you like to see the game? It will be for blood. Bonney will catch for our team, and I will play left field as usual. All the Americans in Egypt will journey to Cairo to see that game.

Dr. Curtis says he and Dr. Bonney long for "some good, old Boston baked beans and some apple pie."

JUDGE FORSAITH DEAD; 39 YEARS ON LOCAL BENCH

Judge William J. Forsaith, before whom Jesse Pomeroy was first arraigned, is dead at his home, No. 372 Longwood avenue, Brookline. He was for thirty-nine years a justice of the Boston Municipal Court, retiring on a pension in October, 1911.

Born in Newport, N. H., in 1836, he prepared for college at Kimball Union Academy and graduated at Dartmouth in 1857. He was admitted to the bar in Boston in May, 1860.

He practiced law in partnership with Benjamin Hallett in Boston until 1872, when Governor Washburn appointed him special justice on the municipal bench, with jurisdiction over juvenile offenders.

In 1873 he gave the first hearing on a case of the boy Jesse Pomeroy, who was later sent to prison for life for killing a playmate.

SOMERVILLE MAYOR ANGERS G. O. P. MEN BY NAMING ELLIOTT

The appointment by Mayor Burns at Somerville of George E. Elliott as chairman of the Board of Assessors at $2,000 a year has roused the antagonism of the Republican organization in that city, who expected the position to go to ex-Alderman Leonard W. Cole, president of the Somerville City Committee, and who, two weeks ago, requested the Mayor to make that appointment.

The threat is now made that if the Mayor does not appoint a man as new principal assessor, a position which carries $800 in salary, who is satisfactory to the committee, they will urge the Republican members of the Board of Aldermen to refuse to confirm his appointment.

HOSTILE QUERIES BY LEGISLATORS SHED NEW LIGHT IN HILL TOWN CASE

The questions and answers printed in this column today are respectfully referred to the people of the Commonwealth.

These questions were asked by prominent Republicans, members of the all-powerful Committee on Rules at the State House.

The answers are by Representative John G. Stevens of Marblehead, a shoe manufacturer.

Representative Stevens is thirty-eight years old. He is a member of the Committee on Street Railways.

When the AMERICAN charged, and offered to prove, that the "Hill Towns" agitation of last year was financed by the New Haven Railroad, Representative Stevens indignantly offered an "order," in the House of Representatives, providing for a thorough investigation of the charges by a committee, with power to send for persons, books and papers and hear witnesses under oath.

The Stevens order was promptly shunted to the Joint Committee on Rules.

The House Committee on Rules is called the "Speaker's Cabinet." The Senate Committee on Rules is the Cabinet of the Senate president. These men rule the Legislature ordinarily.

PLEASE REMEMBER that the New Haven Railroad wants to build trolley lines in Western Massachusetts by permission of the Legislature, because the receipt of such legislative permission would set aside the established "policy" of Massachusetts. That policy is that steam railroads must not engage in the street railway trade.

REMEMBER, TOO, that the New Haven posed as an Innocent Bystander in the "Hill Towns" movement. That was an "uprising of the people." They wanted trolleys. They wanted trolleys, even if the New Haven had to build them.

The AMERICAN having charged that the New Haven was and is the moneyed member of the Hill Towns Transit Association, with its printing and its demonstrations and its press agents, Representative Stevens demands the truth.

What Happened to Stevens.

NOTE NOW WHAT HAPPENED TO STEVENS, who wants the truth, when the Joint Committee on Rules got after him. These questions and answers are reprinted from the Boston Evening Transcript, which has never been accused of "whacking the railroads."

Senator Coolidge — Assuming that the New Haven did make the payment as alleged, what effect do you say that should have upon us?

Representative Stevens—I do not know.

Senator Coolidge—Do you contend that the New Haven had not the right to make the payments?

Representative Stevens—I do not know what the New Haven's powers are.

Senator Coolidge—Assuming that the Boston AMERICAN should charge some day that I had paid my laundry bill, do you think that statement should be investigated?

Representative Stevens—That is not to the point; this article (holding up the paper) makes a direct charge.

Senator Coolidge—A direct charge of what? Does it charge that the New Haven did any illegal thing when it made the payment?

Representative Stevens—That is for the committee to determine.

Representative Bliss — Could you produce any evidence if an investigation were ordered?

Representative Stevens—I have no evidence except what is contained in this newspaper. I have no further evidence whatever.

Representative Putnam—Have you made any investigation to ascertain whether the acts charged are illegal?

Representative Stevens—None whatever.

Representative Putnam—Would you want an investigation if it were shown that the act was a legal one?

Representative Stevens — I don't care to answer that now.

Wanted Information.

President Greenwood—Why did you offer the order?

Representative Stevens—Simply because as a member of the Committee on Street Railways I want all the information I can get.

Senator Blanchard—Couldn't you have gotten this information as a member of the Committee on Street Railways without any special investigation? Hasn't there been, and isn't there now, every opportunity for every member of that committee to get all the information he desires?

Representative Stevens—I suppose so.

Continuing, Representative Stevens said he thought an investigation can do no harm, and if it be shown that the charges are without foundation he thought the cause of the hill towns would be materially aided, and he thought the chances of passing the trolley bill have been seriously hurt by the publication of the article.

Speaker Cushing—You voted for the bill last year, didn't you?

Representative Stevens—No, sir, I voted against it.

Senator Blanchard—Don't you think the article was published for the purpose of killing the trolley bill?

Representative Stevens — I don't know.

Representative Cox—You have said that you are desirous of getting all possible information on this matter.

Representative Stevens—Yes, sir.

Representative Cox—Have you communicated with the management of the Boston AMERICAN to ascertain whether they have any facts to substantiate their statement?

Representative Stevens—I have not.

Representative Morton H. Burdick of Adams said the question before the Legislature today, in connection with the western trolley bill is whether the sentiment of Western Massachusetts is sufficiently strong to warrant the Commonwealth in overturning its established policy, and he thought it highly important that the Legislature should know whether such sentiment as there exists is entirely spontaneous, or if it has been manufactured.

"There Was No Opposition."

Representative Putnam — Assuming that the New Haven did contribute to wipe out a deficiency in the treasury of the Hill Towns Transit Association, would that have been illegal?

Representative Burdick—No.

Representative Putnam — Or improper

Representative Burdick—No.

Representative George M. Worrall of Attleboro thought that it would be well to secure some evidence of the truth of the charge before taking action. There was no opposition.

The humorist may say that the best line in this Transcript report of the Committee on Rules hearing is the last:

"There was no opposition."

The reporter means that nobody came, from OUTSIDE of the committee, to oppose the Stevens order.

The AMERICAN submits that if the room had been filled with New Haven attorneys, sent to oppose the inquiry, the hostile questions of these committeemen left nothing to be said.

These questions by Rules Committeemen at the State House throw a great white light on a legislative committee in the act of shielding a railroad corporation.

Turn on the Light.

And the AMERICAN will undertake, here and now, to answer some of the Coolidge questions.

The payments of New Haven cash to the Hill Towns Transit Association were made in secret, through H. A. Moses of Springfield.

These payments of New Haven cash were made for the purpose of affecting legislation at the Massachusetts State House.

Making these payments, in secret and for the purpose of affecting legislation, Mr. Mellen and his associates were using the money of the New Haven Railroad for purposes not within the objects of the railroad company's charter.

The AMERICAN trusts that the questions are answered and that the investigation may proceed.

TURN ON THE LIGHT!

MORE TRY TO WIN THAT $5 SLANG PRIZE

The contestants in the Slang Contest have sent in several slang expressions, inspired by the suffrage "hikers," hoping to capture the $5 prize offered by the Slang Editor of the AMERICAN for the best slang word or expression mailed to this newspaper.

"Put on that old red petticoat and march to Washington, but beware of the Bull Moose," writes Mrs. C. E. Kendall, No. 7 Harvard street, Waltham.

"Do the suffragists eat turkey on their trot?" inquires Dora Delude, No. 13 William street, North Brookfield.

Entries are still coming in from almost every city and town of New England, including Needham Heights. Henry Hart of Hunnewell street, that place, coins the word "Bello."

Says he: "It doesn't need much of a scholar to see that this word would take the place of 'Time.' I think the word 'Bell-o' should become useful and be put down in some dictionary of the future."

"I bought a Sunday AMERICAN for a kinickle," writes Chester Merigold, Nantasket Beach. "Kinickle" is his "new" slang word.

To answer a thousand and one questions asked every day, Charles E. Schlottman, No. 408 Salem street, Medford, suggests this expression: "Scan the print."

"Don't get gloomy, shine up," is the entry from Helen Stronck, No. 10 of Dorchester.

Watch for more entries in tomorrow's AMERICAN.

MRS. CURTIS ON WHY WOMEN NEED THE VOTE

Mrs. Thomas P. Curtis, in an adress before the Boston Central Woman's Christian Temperance Union at the Park Street Church, emphasized the reasons why housewives require the ballot. She said:

> Women want the right to vote in order to be able to feed their children properly, to clothe them properly, to safeguard their morals and their health, to enforce the excellent laws which are already upon our statute books and to abolish child labor.
>
> It is known that Colorado, which has had equal suffrage nineteen years, has the best and most humane laws regarding children of any State in this country.

Mrs. W. H. Pingkham of Colorado, who has recently come to this city to live, declared that the feeling of being disfranchised was nothing short of insulting to one who had always enjoyed the right to take a part in the government.

Society Dresses in Japanese Garb for Copley Hall Fete

Everything was Japanese at Copley Hall at the annual festival of "Mi-Careme," given by the Copley Society, and which attracted many society people. "Mume Ume-No-Maysuri" the invitations to the affair read. It meant "Plum Blossom Festival."

Costumes were Japanese; decorations were Japanese; invitations were Japanese. Everyone tried to look Japanese. It was Japanese all through. E. A. Merrill wore a mandarin costume which was said to be 200 years old.

A Japanese supper was served, and after this there came the entertainment, followed by dancing.

PENSION FOR WIDOW OF GEN. M'ARTHUR

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—A pension of $100 a month has been authorized by the Senate for Mrs. McArthur, widow of the late Lieutenant-General Arthur McArthur, a Civil War Union leader. The bill had passed the House.

DYNAMITERS ARE DEFENDED BY GOMPERS

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Feb. 28.—Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, today expressed his belief in the innocence of all of the thirty-three men sentenced to the Federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kas., as conspirators in the McNamara dynamite plots. He said, in addressing the iron-workers' delegates in convention here, that he was confident the United States Circuit Court of Appeals would grant new trials.

Mr. Gompers expressed confidence in Frank M. Ryan as president, John T. Butler of Buffalo as vice-president, and Eugene A. Clancey, San Francisco; Philip A. Cooley, New Orleans; Michael J. Young, Boston, and Frank C. Webb, New York, as members of the executive board.

"The Precious Lives of Little Children"

Are often sacrificed through carelessness. Children should be taught at an early age to rinse the mouth thoroughly morning and night with "ODOL."

The germ of Diphtheria is ever a deadly menace to the lives of children. It enters through the mouth.

The constant use of "ODOL" as a mouth-wash is the SAFEGUARD that renders a child practically immune from attack. Pleasant to the taste and delightfully refreshing.

"ODOL" will also harden the gums and keep the teeth in a healthy condition. There is nothing "Just as Good" as "ODOL."

POTHIER CHOOSES BOARD TO CONSIDER GRAND TRUNK BONDS

PROVIDENCE, Feb. 28.—Governor Pothier has formed his railroad cabinet. It consists of twenty-eight prominent citizens. They will meet at his office Monday to form a committee to investigate the advisability of the proposed State guarantee of the $6,000,000 bond issue to finance the completion of the Southern New England-Grand Trunk Railroad project.

If the committee reports favorably on the proposition, the Governor will recommend that the Legislature provide for a special election at which the voters themselves may pass on the proposed guarantee.

SUN A MAGNET, CLAIMS DR. HALE

PASADENA, Cal., Feb. 28.—Observations from Mount Wilson by Dr. George Gregory Hale, director of the Mount Wilson Solar Observatory, have proved the sun to be a magnet, but one without appreciable effect upon the earth. Its magnetic poles, declares Dr. Hale, lie near the poles of rotation and correspond with the magnetic poles of this earth.

CLOTHING ON CREDIT

This Credit House, established thirty-four years ago, now represents the modern method of trading.

The Credit House of Boyle Bros. today is far different than the Credit House of thirty-four years ago. Then the business was new and the public was not familiar with the benefits and advantages of this great system. And many were prejudiced about buying that way. But now it's different. Times have changed—the people have become used to it. Today the business is established—the system is perfected. Credit is universal. Everybody buys everything everywhere on credit. It is considered the proper way to trade to have an account somewhere, as everybody else does. It's quite proper and fashionable to have an account with Boyle Bros., the great Credit Department Store, that sells everything. You will find it just as convenient as the others do to have an account with a house that can supply you on credit, without extra charge, with anything you want, at a moment's notice, by simply saying to the salesperson, "charge it," that's all.

BOYLE BROS.
CLOTHING ON CREDIT

This Credit House, established thirty-four years ago, now represents the modern method of trading.

The Credit House of Boyle Bros. today is far different than the Credit House of thirty-four years ago. Then the business was new and the public was not familiar with the benefits and advantages of the [illegible] system [illegible] about buying that way, but now it's different. [illegible] changed [illegible] the system is perfected. [illegible] considered [illegible] where, as [illegible] does. It's quite proper and [illegible] able to have an account with [illegible] Department Store that sells everything. You will find it just as convenient as the others do to have an account with a house that can supply you on credit without extra charge, with anything you want, at a moment's notice, by simply saying to the salesperson, "charge it," that's all.

Last Two Days of Red Tag Sale

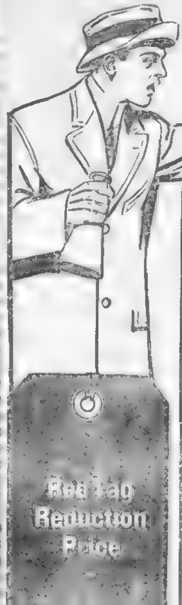
This has been a very unusual sale. Each day's crowd of buyers have gone away satisfied, because they found the values in the goods rather than in what we said about them. This is the way we always want it to be.



But the sale ends tomorrow night. [illegible] be sure to get busy early on the many values we've prepared especially for the wind-up—for you're not apt to see their equal again until another Red Tag Sale rolls around.

OUR PLAN IS THIS: Whatever we wish to clear out at once we Red Tag. The original white price ticket remains on the article the Red Tag shows the reduced price it is to be sold at. In this way you can see how deep the prices are cut—and can figure out for yourself just how much you save.

CASSIDY SHOWS WHY 'BOB VEAL' AND SAUSAGE MEASURES SHOULD PASS

Mr. Cassidy today discusses the hearing held yesterday when the Committee on Public Health at the State House heard arguments and testimony for and against three of the bills bearing Mr Cassidy's name, which have been introduced before the Legislature.

The bills were House Bills Nos. 1161, 1163 and 1,166. Two of these were designed to strike out the word "knowingly" from the existing statutes on the sale of bob veal and on the sale of unwholesome or decomposed foods, and the third was to prevent the sale of sausages in which coloring matter or cereal had been used.

By HARRY P. CASSIDY.

The hearing on three pure food bills bearing my name, which was held before the Committee on Public Health yesterday, was gratifying in the extreme to every friend of pure food.

It was gratifying because of the [illegible] of the committee, whose members by their questions indicated their realization of the fact that the law at present PROTECTS THE RETAILER when it should PROTECT THE CONSUMER.

READ THIS—FIND OUT WHO WE ARE IN NEW YORK CITY AND WHAT WE ARE GOING TO DO IN BOSTON!

For many years we conducted but ONE Merchant Tailoring Establishment on Broadway, New York City. To be sure we had been at this "same old stand" a long while and had earned an enviable reputation as makers of fine hand-tailored clothes for New York's most fastidious dressers. Then the idea occurred to us that by multiplying our sales we could LOWER OUR PRICES. To do the former we had to do the latter. Down came our prices and UP WENT OUR SALES. To-day, as a result, we maintain SIX of the MOST FLOURISHING MERCHANT TAILORING STORES IN NEW YORK CITY. The quality of our materials and workmanship has never been changed. Suits and Overcoats that once we made for $40 to $60, we NOW MAKE FOR $14.75, absolutely no more, pick out any goods in the house and the price THIS WEEK ONLY is $14.75, absolutely no higher. Our sales are enormous. Our profits are small, per garment, but far greater than we ever expected when the monthly balance is struck. We buy the whole outputs of woolen mills and stocks of jobbers and consignments of importers. We make 500 garments to most of our competitors' ONE. These are reasons why we so vastly undersell the "little fellow."

Plain Facts about Champagne

Can the customs officers impart life, bouquet, flavor to a wine? Can a transatlantic steamship freight department improve the purity and deliciousness of a champagne?

If so, by all means pay $2.00 for your champagne—of which Uncle Sam gets 60c for duty and a steamship company 40c for freight. But if not—buy Cook's Imperial and get the best of champagnes, all of whose cost goes into quality.

Married Life the Third Year

By MABEL HERBERT URNER

Helen Calls on Mrs. Randall at a Cheap Furnished Room House

"MET Randall on the subway this morning," announced Warren, as he stirred his afternoon dinner coffee.

"Oh, you did!" Helen leaned forward with eager interest. "Has he a position yet?"

"I believe he's trying to see something or other on commission. He wasn't very communicative, and you can't pump a fellow when he's down and out, but I know he hasn't any regular job."

"Didn't he say anything about Mrs. Randall and the children?"

"Yes, they've sublet their apartment furnished and gone to board. He said they weren't giving their address, but he thought Mrs. Randall would like to see you. You ought to go—don't you think so?"

"Oh, of course, if you think she really wants me."

"He wouldn't have said so if she didn't. I started to tell him he could count on me for anything I could do, but he shied away—changed the subject. Jove, it must go hard with a man of his pride to be up against it like that."

"But, dear, don't you think he'll get something soon? Surely a man of his ability"——

Ability Not Counted

"Now you've been over all that before," interrupted Warren, irritably; but this time his irritation was not at Helen, but at the general injustice of the business world to men of Randall's type. "I told you a man's ability didn't count when he seeks a job with gray hair and no capital. Osler has it about right—a man over forty's out of the running."

"You didn't give me their address," reminded Helen.

He took some papers from his pocket and tore off a pencil address.

"— street," read Helen from a slip. "I wonder what kind of a place it is."

"Some cheap boarding house. You'd better call tomorrow—maybe you can cheer her up. Ask 'em here to dinner, if they'll come. I intended to ask Randall, but he was off before I got the chance."

Helen had seen Mrs. Randall only once since her husband had lost the position he had held for over twenty years with Crane & Barker. They had not given up their apartment then, and Mrs. Randall had cried that they could not give it up—that they could not live anywhere cheaper than they were living there.

Yet she admitted helplessly that the rent was $1,200 a year, and that they had always lived up to every cent of his salary—saving nothing. And Helen had wondered pityingly as she looked around the expensively furnished apartment, how long it would be before Mrs. Randall would have to realize that they could live cheaper. Evidently that realization had come very soon—for already they had moved.

The next afternoon Helen paused before a dingy brownstone house. It was only one of the many in that block. They had once been well-to-do homes, each with its individuality, but now there was the stamp of the boarding and rented-room house about them all.

She went up the stone stoop to the shabby doorway and rang the bell. There was no response and she was about to ring again, when a man ran up the steps, feeling in his pocket for a key. As he stooped over to unlock the door, Helen noticed his overcoat with its worn fur collar, and his general seedy air of the lower class actor.

He held the door open as though expecting her to enter. It was an awkward situation, for he was plainly one of the roomers.

"Do you know if the Randalls have rooms here?" faltered Helen.

"Don't know anybody. Wait, I'll call Susan." Leaving the door open, he went to the top of the basement stairs and shouted, "Susan! Hey, Susan, somebody's up here!"

Then he glanced over the letters on the hall rack, selected one and hurried upstairs. A slatternly maid came up from the basement.

"Who'd you want to see, ma'am?" staring at Helen, who was still standing in the open door.

"Mrs. Randall."

"Third floor back," briefly, as she slammed the front door and shuffled down the back stairs.

With the door closed, the hall was dark and the odor of stale cooking more pronounced. Slowly Helen climbed the three flights. There were rubber treads over the worn stairway carpet, and here and there the white plaster gleamed through the scarred wall paper.

Breathless from the unaccustomed stairs, Helen knocked timidly at the door of what she thought was the third floor back. It was Mrs. Randall who answered the knock, flushing painfully as she recognized Helen. But after the embarrassment of the first few moments Helen felt she was glad to see her.

She had been sewing, and as soon as Helen was seated she took up her work again.

The Work She Did

"I'm making these," she said simply, holding up a dainty boudoir cap, "for the Woman's Exchange. Of course they won't buy them, but they let me put them there on sale."

Then, as though glad of the chance to talk to some one of the hardships of the last two months, she told of giving up their apartment. There was no way of keeping it unless they went into debt.

"And at least," with a sort of fierce pride, "we don't owe a penny. We may have been foolish and extravagant in living up to our income, but we never lived beyond it. And so we choose this," with a glance about the dingy, cheaply furnished room, "rather than go into debt now."

"I'm sure you are right," murmured Helen. "This is much the better way."

"And we were fortunate in subletting the apartment furnished for $140 a month—$40 more than our rent. Here we pay only $8 a week for this and a tiny hall room for Frank; we're trying to keep him in school. Eleanor and Betty are with their grandmother."

"Then you go out for your meals?" asked Helen.

"I get our breakfast here," nodding toward a percolator and a tin box on the table. "And we go to some little restaurant for dinner; we found one that's both clean and cheap."

"Oh, I think you've been very brave. This is so much better than trying to keep up appearances by going in debt. And when Mr. Randall does get on his feet again you won't have anything hanging over you."

"Yes, if he ever does," with a break in her voice. "Oh, I feel now that I can stand anything if only he doesn't get despondent. But the papers are full of the tragedies of middle-aged men who can't find employment. Did you read just yesterday about that man, an expert bookkeeper I think he was who had lost his position and couldn't get another because of his gray hair? He left a note saying he wouldn't live to be a burden on his relatives. I hid the paper so Henry wouldn't see it."

Helen's Admiration

"Oh, you mustn't let yourself think of such things," protested Helen. "I'm sure there're a great many firms that would be glad to have a man of Mr. Randall's experience and character." Then she added, a little awkwardly, "And you mustn't shut yourself up here too close. We should so like to have you and Mr. Randall for dinner. Could you come some evening next week?"

"That's very kind of you," flushing slightly, "but I don't think either Henry or I could go anywhere just yet. Later, perhaps, when things are a little more certain, we'd love to come."

When Helen rose to leave she glanced hesitatingly at the boudoir cap. She wanted to offer to buy it, but was afraid Mrs. Randall might resent anything that even bordered on charity. Perhaps it would be much more delicate to get one from the Woman's Exchange.

As she went down the stairs, now so dark that she had to feel her way by the railing, her thoughts were full of Mrs. Randall and of ways she might help her without hurting her pride.

But somehow the problem of the Randalls' failure did not seem so hopeless as it had two months ago, when she had left their luxurious apartment with Mrs. Randall's helpless cry of, "What shall we do? We can't live cheaper than we're living now," ringing in her ears.

Adversity seemed to have strengthened her, as adversity so often does. And Helen had a profound admiration for her determined effort to keep out of debt.

When she thought of the many families who under similar circumstances go on living on their tradesmen and borrowing from their friends, the Randall's radical method of giving up everything until they could get another start seemed to Helen a very fine and splendid thing.

And she could not believe that any further adversity would follow where such an overwhelming blow had been so bravely met.

WAKING HIM UP

A YOUNG married lady one morning gave her husband a sealed letter, which he was to read when he got to his office. He did so, and the letter ran as follows:

"I am obliged to tell you something that may give you pain, but there is no help for it. You shall know everything, whatever be the consequences. For the last week I have felt that it must come to this, but I have waited until the last extremity, and can remain silent no longer. Do not overwhelm me with bitter reproach, for you will have to put up with your share of the trouble as well as myself."

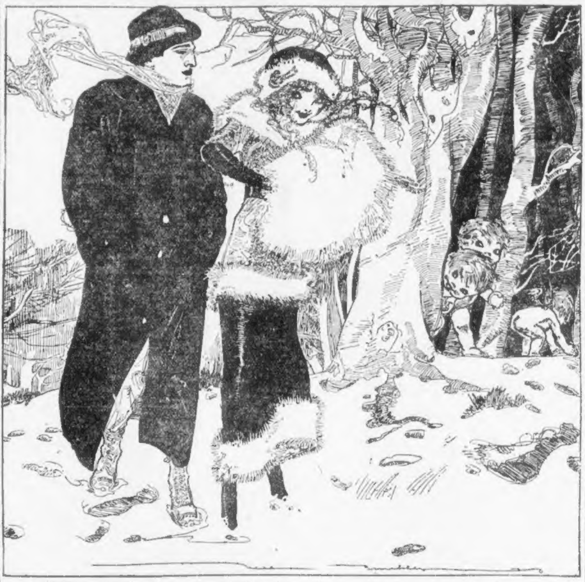
Cold perspiration stood in thick drops on the brow of the husband, who was prepared for the worst. Trembling he read on:

"Our coal is all gone. Please order a ton to be sent this afternoon. I thought you might forget it for the tenth time, and therefore wrote you this letter."

But he didn't forget it that time!

A Walk in Winter Woods---By Nell Brinkley

Copyright, 1913, by American-Journal-Examiner



Winter woods—that doesn't sound inviting these cold days, but when you get the chance to walk in them with the One Girl, who is an outdoor enthusiast, your idea of them will change. You don't remember much about the walk, except that it was glorious and that you expected to see little Cupids hovering around and pelting you with snowballs, instead of using bows and arrows on your heart. And you knew your heart had already capitulated, and wondered if she would say "Yes" if you proposed. You had always dreamed of proposing to her on a warm, balmy night in Spring, when the moon cast its mellow glow over the earth—and you suddenly realized that you had "cold feet"—both literally and metaphorically—and never did get the words you wanted to say out of your mouth. But it was a bully walk, and you'd like to take it again with her.

Hunting a Husband

By VIRGINIA TERHUNE VAN DE WATER

Lacy Comforts Beatrice, and, While She Is in His Arms, Maynard Returns—Lacy and Maynard Have a Physical Encounter, and the Widow Swoons.

IF Keith Lacy was surprised when Beatrice Minor dropped her head on his shoulder and burst into tears, he did not show his amazement. Instead, he slipped a supporting arm around the hysterical woman's waist, and, with the other hand, stroked her hair lightly.

"There, there!" he murmured, in the soothing tone he might have used to a frightened child. "Don't cry, dear Mrs. Minor! Everything will come out all right. If you can tell me about it, and I can help, I'll do my best to fix it up all straight in no time."

The events of the past twenty-four hours had told upon the woman's nerves, and the conversation with Paul Maynard had been a strain on her emotions. At first she had no appreciation of the picture she made, as she clung to the young Westerner's arm. Her only sensation for the moment was of gratitude that she had been allowed to "have her cry out" in the presence of a sympathetic friend. Soon, however, her own individuality began to emerge from the chaos into which her hysterical emotion had plunged her, her sobs lessened and she freed herself from Lacy's encircling arm.

"I am desperately ashamed of myself," she quavered, wiping her eyes with a dainty handkerchief and trying to smile. "I must be very nervous to have been so silly. But I have been through a trying experience lately."

Lacy Is Grateful

"Of course you have," agreed Lacy heartily. "And I would be even sorrier than I am, if I had not reaped some happiness from your misfortune. I haven't the slightest idea what you're worrying about, but I know that it isn't every man that has the privilege of having a dear woman turn to him in her sorrow. And I thank you!"

The widow laughed tremulously. "I am the one to be grateful," she began. Then, as a fuller consciousness of what she had done swept over her, she turned from him with a gasp of mortification, her face flushing crimson.

"Oh, I am so ashamed!" she repeated. "What must you think of me?"

Keith Lacy laid his hands gently on her shoulders and turned her face toward him. Her eyes fell before his honest and serious gaze. He was not laughing now.

"You have no reason to be ashamed," he said gently. "You have honored me by trusting me in your unhappiness, that's all. As to what I think of you—I shall tell you when you care to hear, Beatrice."

A step sounded on the veranda behind them. Lacy heard it, and his hands slipped quickly from Beatrice's shoulders and he turned abruptly to face the intruder. It was Paul Maynard. Although he had ridden his horse up to the steps, the pair on the porch had been too much absorbed to hear the animal's hoof-beats on the soft road bed. Now the rider stood before them, his face white and a cynical smile on his pale lips. He was the first to break the painful silence.

"I am sorry to disturb this romantic scene," he said with elaborate courtesy. "I came back for my riding gloves. I should not have returned if I had known that I was unwillingly to play the part of spectator. I fear that my dull masculine mind cannot keep pace with the rapid change of feminine emotions."

Maynard's Insolence

His tone made Keith Lacey redden, but his words drove the color from the woman's cheeks.

"I do not think that your gloves are here, Mr. Maynard," she said coldly.

"Pardon me, Mrs. Minor," Maynard said, "but they are lying on the floor directly behind you. Probably you have been too——busy since I left to observe them."

Beatrice's face flushed once more as she bent—forestalling Lacy's move to do so—and picked up the gauntlets which lay almost at her feet. Keith glanced in uncomfortable wonder at the man and the woman who confronted each other. There was something here that he did not understand; there was the glint of anger in both pairs of eyes, and the voice of each held a sound of suppressed emotion. No, he did not understand it, but he appreciated that Maynard's calm insolence was making him suddenly angry, and he bit his lips in the effort to keep silent and looked steadily out toward the distant hills.

Maynard bowed deeply, with a faint exaggeration of his usual courtly grace, as he took the gloves from the widow's hand.

"I thank you very much," he said, his eyes searching hers. "I am very sorry to have disturbed you, but I will remedy my mistake at once by going away now and leaving you and your companion in a solitude a deux. A pleasant morning to you both!"

An expression of pain or anger flashed across Beatrice's face. Maynard noted it and a gleam of triumph came into his eyes. He bowed once more and turned to go, but, as he passed Lacy he glanced at him with a look that had in it a tinge of contempt. At the head of the steps he paused and spoke again, a sarcastic smile playing about his handsome lips.

"If I might advise," he suggested politely, "I would suggest a less exposed spot than this for such a scene as I just interrupted. It may be pleasant for the passer-by on the road below to see a bit of romantic drama—and yet some spectators might be cynical."

The covert sneer set the Westerner's blood on fire, and, with an exclamation of anger, he sprang forward and struck Maynard full in the face. Beatrice uttered a horrified protest, and closed her eyes for an instant. When she opened them again Maynard had grasped Lacy's wrists, pinioning the young man's arms to his sides. Even in that moment of fear the woman noted with a thrill of irrepressible admiration how Maynard towered above the slight figure of the fellow that looked like a mere youth compared with the man who clinched him firmly. Lacy was red and panting; Maynard was calm and pale, save for a red blotch on one cheek. When the older man spoke his voice was firm and calm.

Beatrice Swoons

"My friend," he said, quietly, "if you were only a little younger, I would take you across my knee and thrash you. Oh, I could do it, I assure you," he said grimly as Keith struggled and tried to speak. "See!" as with a sudden wrench he lifted the smaller man bodily, and gave him one vengeful shake, "I am rather more than a match for you!" He let go of the breathless Westerner, and dusted his hands off lightly with his gloves as if they had been slightly soiled by handling some infernal animal. "You understand, now, I hope, why I did not break you in two when you struck me."

He walked down the steps and paused with one foot in the stirrup to look back at the gasping man and terrified woman, then, with an ugly laugh, he swung himself into the saddle and, striking his spurs into his horse, galloped away.

The mortified and disconcerted man, standing just where the athlete had deposited him, looked piteously at the trembling woman who leaned for support against a pillar of the veranda.

"I beg your pardon," he stammered, "for what happened just now. I had no business to strike him in your presence, and I——"

But he got no further, for the widow swayed weakly. For a moment it seemed to her that the floor was moving in sickening waves beneath her. Then, with a little moan, she sank at the man's feet in a dead faint.

SOME FACTS

THE skin contains more than 2,000,000 openings, which are the outlets of an equal number of sweat glands. The human skeleton consists of more than 200 distinct bones.

An amount of blood equal to the whole quantity in the body passes through the heart once every minute. The full capacity of the lungs is about 320 cubic inches. About two-thirds of a pint of air are inhaled and exhaled at each breath in ordinary respiration. There are said to be more than 500 separate muscles in the body, with an equal number of nerves and blood vessels.

The weight of the heart is from eight to twelve ounces. It beats 100,000 times in twenty-four hours. Each perspiratory duct is one-fourth of an inch in length, the aggregate of the whole being thus about nine miles.

The average man takes five and a half pounds of food and drink each day, which amounts to nearly one ton of solid and liquid nourishment annually.

A Bachelor's Diary

By MAX

JANUARY 10,—We have been back here in our Winter quarters in Tampa for less than twenty-four hours, but a great deal has happened.

I have noticed that a great deal may happen in a very short time when there is a pretty woman around. This is particularly true if she is a widow. If I dared compare them, out of my meagre experiences with the sex, I would call the widow the Cannon Ball Express on the Road to Matrimony, and the Spinster the Special Snail Limited. An event that takes a week to develop, and sometimes months and years, when the woman concerned is a spinster, doesn't require five minutes if she is a widow.

Of course, Diary, I will tell you all about it, though here of late I have the feeling that you are getting a lot of quiet amusement out of me. So sure am I of this that I have vowed many times not to confide so much in you. Then I remember that the one who is a consoling friend in hours of loneliness and sorrow has earned the right to listen when the time has come for laughing, and I tell you all. But I am glad my confidences are confined to you. It is a merciful dispensation of Providence that I will never become so great that there will be a demand for any posthumous papers.

We arrived yesterday afternoon at five, and Manette was so tired that after dinner in our apartments she was put into her clothes of night, and I rocked her to sleep in my arms. Something, by the way, of which the modern mother, with a forehead more largely developed than her breast, entirely disapproves.

That Modern Mother

She thinks these poor little strangers in this great big world should be put in their beds alone, wide-eyed in the dark. She declares there shall be no cuddling of a tired little child in one's arms while one goes with it to the portals of Slumber Land, beguiling it with strange adventures of good and bad fairies on the way. She talks learnedly of the child's brain. I am only a big, awkward, ignorant man, a poor substitute for the mother Manette lost the day she was born, but so far as I can I live up to the traditions of old-fashioned motherhood, and am more concerned with the child's heart.

I admit this is a digression, Diary, but as there is no impatient reader holding his or her breath in anxiety to know what really happened, I can digress as much as I please. That is the advantage of writing a diary; one is not bound by custom, usage, the rule of three or the obligation one owes to a reader, to make events move swiftly.

But if I were writing a novel I wouldn't expect any one to wade through three or four hundred pages to learn that He Courted Her, and they were married. Every one knows they are quarrels, villains, stern parents, the high cost of living, and that She is Beautiful and the Summer breezes blow her hair around her face in alluring little curls. Why tell all that? Time is so valuable I would never have on my soul the burden of having caused any one to waste any. I would publish all my novels in tabloid form by inserting a notice of the marriage in the paper.

The Confession

But to go back to that confession which I have delayed making through so many pages. I had put Manette to bed and feeling the need of a breath of fresh air, went down to the hotel veranda. It was dark and deserted. I was grateful for that then, but I am wondering now if the kind Providence that has helpless bachelors in its care were not loafing on the job. Otherwise, the porch would have been crowded to the most remote corner, and there would have been a glare of light like that in a three-for-a-quarter photograph gallery.

But, being a man, and, therefore, as blind as a bat (I quote from familiar phrases found in suffrage literature), I was grateful for the darkness and quiet, and found peace and satisfaction in my cigar. I had begun on the second when I heard the rustle of a woman's skirts. I hoped they would pass me, but they didn't, for in another moment I felt a hand on my shoulder. The familiarity startled me. Was it displeasing? I leave that to you, Diary. If you were a man and a pretty woman put her hand on your shoulder, would you scream for help?

I didn't. All the training given the masculine sex is against screaming. That is where the mistake began. If I had been brought up to express every emotion with a loud noise, which is the woman's way, perhaps the surprise of her hand on my shoulder gave me might have resulted in calling a policeman. And what use are policemen anyway, Diary? They never have protected me when I most needed protection. They stand around on the street corners and look wise, and once in a man's lifetime keep a burglar from stealing his silver spoons and christening mug; but they never come to the rescue when a woman is about to steal him! I think my next reform will be to find beats for policemen where they are really needed.

As I said before the digression, I didn't scream. On the contrary, I got up with a smile and offered the widow a chair. Of course you guessed it was the widow! In that particular this diary is as disgusting as a novel. If it had a reader, the reader could tell what happens six pages ahead.

The widow made no apology for the familiarity. I missed connections with the psychological moment, for I let the chance to demand it go by.

We had talked half an hour on such commonplace subjects as Christmas, the weather, the new year, and what's the right wages to pay a coachman, when there was a pause, just like one of those throbbing pauses in a book. I felt her hand steal into mine. Again I suffered the penalty for my training in manly silence, for I did not cry for help. It was my left hand she held. I was grateful for that, for it gave me opportunity to reach in my pocket with my right hand for the Book of Warnings Mrs. Spencer had written. I grasped it, and the touch of it gave me courage.

The Widow's Request

"Please," said the widow, in the sweetest of voices, "kiss me!"

My hand closed tighter over the Book of Warnings. Somewhere in it was written a warning covering just such a desperate situation.

"Please kiss me," she repeated, lingering on the second word in a way that made me bring the Book of Warnings out of my pocket in alarm.

There I was, with that book covering my need in my hand and the hour of danger near, and I could not read it in the dark. I felt the moral support it had given me oozing away.

Her head was lying on my shoulder. Her lips were dangerously near.

"Please," the voice repeated.

I turned my face toward the widow.

Diary, I have concluded that Mrs. Jack Spencer isn't the true friend she claims to be.

If she were really concerned in my safety she would have equipped that book with a headlight.

MRS. SIMCOE HAD ITCHING HUMOR ALL OVER HEAD

Tried Everything. Almost Gave Up Hope. A Little Resinol Cured.

Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 11, 1912.—"Sores began to break out all over my head and on the inside of my ears. They would gather and run, and where it would run it would make another sore, and my head finally got so bad, the way it itched was terrible. I slept with my head wrapped up to keep from scratching in my sleep, it was so severe. I also had dandruff and falling hair. I tried several different salves and took different kinds of blood medicines, but nothing seemed to do any good. We were talking of cutting my hair off.

"I had been troubled almost two years and almost gave up all hope of ever being cured, when a friend advised me to get Resinol. I got a jar, and began using it with Resinol Soap, and found relief after a few applications. We used the first jar of Resinol Ointment, and about one-half of another, and I was entirely cured." (Signed) Mrs. W. R. Simcoe, 1809 Belleview Street.

Better proof, even than such a letter, is to try Resinol yourself and see how quickly the itching stops and stubborn skin or scalp eruptions disappear. Resinol Ointment and Soap are sold by all druggists. For free trial, write to Dept. 6-T, Resinol Chem. Co., Baltimore, Md.

REVEAL PAPERS IN 2 YEAR-OLD DIVORCE PLEAS

Details of two divorce actions, one settled and the other pending, in which prominent families figure, were revealed today by the release of papers from impoundment with the clerk of the Dedham County Court by Chief Justice Aiken.

One is the divorce libel of Mrs. Louise Towle Barnes, No. 1908 Beacon street, against Roy T. H. Barnes of Boston and Hartford. The second is that of Dr. Almon Cooper of Marion street, Brookline, against Elizabeth Twitchell Bigelow Cooper.

Mrs. Louise Towle Barnes claimed she married Barnes in Boston, September 23, 1897, that they lived together in Boston and in Hartford until April 1, 1898, that on February 20, 1908, while in Hartford, the husband deserted her.

Mrs. Barnes asks the custody of the daughter. The libel was filed March 8, 1912, and the case, once postponed, is now pending. It is understood that there will be no contest.

ROBERT LORAINE IN 'THE CRADLE SNATCHER' WINS

Robert Loraine was welcomed back to Boston at the Plymouth Theatre last evening, when for three hours he kept a large audience in an uproar of laughter at the opening night here of a new comedy entitled "The Cradle Snatcher." Mr. Loraine will be remembered by Boston theatregoers for his excellent acting in "Man and Superman," six years ago.

"The Cradle Snatcher" was produced for the first time on any stage in Baltimore a few weeks ago, and it comes to this city fresh and new. The comedy is by Roi Cooper Megrue and is founded on a short story by Gouverneur Morris.

The plot tells of the amazing experience of a young lawyer who, to fulfil the requirements of a will bequeathing him millions, had to find a suitable girl and marry her within the short space of two weeks. The dramatist has taken full advantage of the opportunities offered for humorous and sentimental situations. "The Cradle Snatcher" is a clean, refreshing comedy of courtship, well acted throughout.

Mr. Loraine, who does his work with his characteristic skill, is supported by an excellent company. Miss Emily Stevens was also a favorite with last evening's audience and her acting was on a par with the star himself. John Westley is to be commended for his excellent work.

Other members of the company include: Leroy Clemens, Stanhope Wheatcroft, Rockliffe Fellowes, Sidney Seaward, Louis Massen, George Backus, A. P. Kaye, Louise Drew, Marguerite Leslie, Louise Hamilton, Lola May, May Seton, Miriam Collins, Eva Condon, Grace Moore and Josephine C. Parks.

TO-DAY'S STOCK MARKETS

The Boston market was fairly strong at the opening, with two points gain by United Fruit a feature. Other price changes were narrow.

At the end of the first hour in New York American Can was down 2 and there had been fractional declines in a number of standard leaders.

It is cabled that markets in Europe displayed a more confident tone and this is mainly because of persistent reports that both Austria and Russia are preparing to demobilize the armies they moved to frontiers to be ready for a squad of the Balkan war.

Wolverine Mining Company directors have declared the regular semi-annual dividend of $5 a share.

N. Y. Market Irregular at Opening.

The New York market was irregular at the opening, and sentiment was not as confident as in London, where American stocks had made gains over this side parity. Much attention was paid to early transactions in Steel common, which declined 1⅜. The large payment on accrued dividends did not prevent American Can, both common and preferred, from declining.

Canadian Pacific, which sold ex-dividend of 2½, was unchanged on first sales. Union Pacific sold ex-dividend of 2½ and was ½ lower. Southern Pacific was up ⅜. Amalgamated opened at 68⅝, unchanged from Thursday's final. Missouri Pacific, Ray Consolidated and Pennsylvania railroad advanced ⅛. Northern Pacific was up ⅜.

The Curb was quiet.

London Copper Opens Strong.

The London copper market was strong at the opening, spot and futures being 12s 6d. higher.

Electrolytic sold in moderate quantities yesterday from 14¾ to 15 cents pound. It is reported that American Smelting and Refining Company is sold ten days ahead.

Thompson, Towle & Co. quote a well known copper authority as saying: "As soon as we witness an improvement in Wall Street in the copper share market, I believe we will see a decided change for the better in the metal situation and from that time on that copper will give a good account of itself."

Financial News in Brief.

The Pennsylvania Railroad now has 75,492 shareholders and 36,457 of them are women. The dividend distribution of the road today amounted to $6,807,169.25.

The American Can Company has declared a dividend of 24 per cent. on back dividends on preferred stock and the regular quarterly dividend of 1¾ per cent. on the same. The accrued dividend payment will total about $10,000,000.

Agricultural and other implement manufacturers have asked steel makers to open books for orders to be delivered the last half of this year and up to July, 1914. This is unprecedented, but it will be done.

It is figured by the Journal of Commerce that interest and dividend payments next month by railroad, industrial and traction corporations will reach $119,167,000, an increase of $14,183,000 as compared with March of a year ago.

Interests headed by James Phillips, Jr., vice-president of the corporation, have elected directors of the Tennessee Copper Company of their own choice, and it is expected that the Lewishons will soon retire from the management. Phillips interests control 140,000 of 200,000 shares. Mr. Phillips may be elected president to succeed Mr. Lewisohn and Walter M. Briggs secretary and treasurer to succeed E. C. Westervelt.

A local financial publication announces that Barr & Moore, members of the Boston Stock Exchange, will close their Boston office on March 1. Charles J. Chapman, its manager, will be connected with Thompson, Towle & Co. after that date, when Charles B. Greenough retires from the firm.

The New York sub-treasury gained $734,000 from the banks yesterday and has gained $6,815,000 since Friday.

SULLIVAN FIGHTS FOR PLAN TO GIVE WORK TO INSANE

Representative Benjamin F. Sullivan of East Boston will today make a fight in the House to secure reconsideration of the defeat of his resolve for a legislative investigation to determine the practicability of providing employment for inmates of insane asylums, the money derived from such employment to go toward the support of the families dependent upon the inmates.

The House yesterday afternoon, by a rising vote of fifty-one to forty-five, accepted the recommendation of the Committee on Social Welfare, that the resolve be referred to the next Legislature. At the time the vote was taken there was not a quorum in the House. The total vote cast on the proposition did not constitute a majority of the membership of the House.

Representative Sullivan contends that his proposition is too important a one to be allowed "to go by the board" without proper consideration by at least a majority of the House. He also contends that the report of the Committee on Social Welfare on his measure, that it be given "next General Court," shows that the committee believes that there is merit in it. He says that if it is good enough to be passed by the next Legislature it is good enough for action at present.

Certain Massachusetts Legislators Ask a Question

And in Our Feeble Little Way We Try to Answer It. See if You Agree with Our Answer

The New Haven Railroad wants to own ALL THE TROLLEY LINES of Massachusetts. IT DISLIKES COMPETITION. It wants a MONOPOLY of transportation in New England.

A law of Massachusetts says that RAILROADS SHALL NOT OWN STREET RAILWAYS, directly or indirectly.

Having done all the law-breaking it believes the people of this Commonwealth will stand for—for a while, at least—the New Haven seeks a way to break down the trolley law.

And so it was, a year ago, that suddenly we began to hear of the demand of the little hill towns of Western Massachusetts that the selfish people of the East permit an exception in the case of those isolated villages and permit the dear old New Haven to build trolleys for them.

The "Hill Towns Transit Association" was born, TO CREATE A PUBLIC CLAMOR, to cry out in the name of the suffering hamlets of the hills, to send a prayer for relief down into the cities and the valleys.

Thanks to the prayers and the pamphlets, the petitions and the press agents of the Hill Towns Transit Association, the Legislature of Massachusetts passed a bill permitting the New Haven to step in.

A GOVERNOR'S VETO stopped the raid.

And now what?

Now the Boston AMERICAN charges, and stands ready to prove, that the Hill Towns Transit Association WAS SUPPORTED BY CHARLES S. MELLEN and his aides to the extent of thousands of dollars, belonging to the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad.

The Boston AMERICAN charges that through the Hill Towns Transit Association, Mr. Mellen and his aides ATTEMPTED TO DECEIVE AND DID DECEIVE the Legislature of Massachusetts.

Representative John G. Stevens of Marblehead, a shoe manufacturer, holds that the AMERICAN charges SHOULD BE INVESTIGATED. He appears to have been impressed by the fact that the railroad people have not denied them. He would order a hearing by the Committee on Street Railways, WITH POWER TO SEND FOR PERSONS, BOOKS AND PAPERS.

The Stevens order went to the Committee on Rules, which runs the Legislature and is run by the Republican State Committee. Who runs the Republican State Committee? Who killed the Republican party in Massachusetts?

Came Representative Stevens before the Committee on Rules. Came with Mr. Stevens other legislators, urging an investigation.

And let us quote a paragraph from our news columns:

> Senators Greenwood, Coolidge of Northampton, Blanchard of Somerville and Representatives White of Newton and Bliss of Malden, members of the committee—all Republicans—wanted to know what difference it made if the New Haven did contribute money to the Hill Towns Association to further the movement.

The New Haven Railroad, in this enterprise, as in many others, worked in the dark. Until this newspaper uncovered the facts, and offered to prove them, nobody, so far as we know, suspected that the Hill Towns movement was a New Haven movement and not a public demand.

And the New Haven Railroad, had it not been for Eugene Noble Foss, would today be pointing to its Western Massachusetts trolley permit and saying: "Well, now, having set aside the policy of Massachusetts in the four Western Counties, what have you got to say about letting us into Essex and Middlesex and Plymouth and Bristol and Norfolk?"

So when Levi Greenwood, President of the Massachusetts Senate, wants to KNOW WHAT DIFFERENCE IT MADE, we suggest to Senator Greenwood that he journey home to Gardner and put the question to the youngest reporter on his payroll at the "Evening News" office.

As for "Charley" Blanchard of Somerville, who has now served eight terms in the Legislature without offending a single corporation so far as we have been able to learn, and "Al" Bliss of Malden—Bliss of the gas companies and the electric companies—we have neither the time nor the space nor the patience to suggest anything.

"WHAT DIFFERENCE DOES IT MAKE?"

Do YOU want to know, Senator Calvin Coolidge of Northampton?

Find the Calvin Coolidge who came out of Amherst College in 1895!

ASK the Calvin Coolidge of eighteen years ago, Calvin Coolidge! HE would have known.

"What difference does it make?"

Only the difference between truth and trickery; merely the difference between right and wrong.

Meat Eating Will Be a Thing of the Past Before Another Hundred Years Have Gone By.

New Foods, Products of the Earth, Will Take Its Place—Vegetables Are Much Better, for They Conduce to Clear Heads and Thinking and Nourish the Body Just as Well—Many Thinkers Have Not Tasted Meat for Years.

By ELLA WHEELER WILCOX.

Copyright, 1913, by the Star Company.

> "It was only yesterday that man learned that he had probably erred hitherto in the choice of his nourishment . . . that a little fruit or milk, a few vegetables, farinaceous substances—now the mere accessories of the too plentiful repast he works so hard to provide . . . are amply sufficient to maintain the ardour of the finest and mightiest life.
>
> "It must be admitted that of the objections urged against vegetarianism not one can withstand a loyal and scrupulous inquiry. I for my part can affirm that those whom I have known to submit themselves to this regimen have found its result to be improved or restored health, marked addition of strength, and the acquisition by the mind of a clearness, brightness, well-being, such as might follow the release from some secular, loathsome, detestable dungeon."—MAETERLINCK, ON THE HUMAN DIET.

MUCH discussion has recently taken place in these columns regarding the vegetarian diet.

It has been claimed that while physical prowess was obtainable with a meatless diet, mental strength, which produces clear, virile thinking, could only come with eating meat.

Maeterlinck is ranked among the first thinkers of the day, and his words seem to give weight to the contrary theory.

Ralph Waldo Trine, one of our best and clearest thinkers, and strong, forceful writers of the day, has partaken of no meat for twenty-five years.

He is a splendid specimen of physical manhood, and any one who questions his mental force needs only read his books to be convinced. Mr. Trine does not write of politics or war, but he writes of subjects which are vastly more important to the whole created universe today, and he writes words of enduring power; words of vital importance to all humanity.

The writer of this article is a mere woman, and one who cannot claim to be a strict vegetarian, and much less can she claim to mental prowess.

Yet she rarely partakes of a meat diet, and during the last five years, while eating less and less meat, she has found herself stronger in every way, physically and mentally.

And possessed of a belief that she was doing her best mental work. It is an easily proven fact that a meat diet creates a quarrelsome and belligerant disposition.

An amiable dog or cat, accustomed to a mixed menu of scraps from the family table, and milk and animal biscuit, can be made ill-tempered and inclined to fight, on small provocation, if given an exclusive meat diet.

It is reasonable to suppose that human beings are affected in a similar manner, even though they may be unconscious of the fact.

Whatever nutritious properties meat may contain, can be found in other foods, if one is willing to give the subject careful study. Without question, Domestic Science will eventually discover some special food, probably chemically prepared from various ingredients, which will be as palatable and as satisfying to the appetite as meat; and which will not necessitate the slaughter of living creatures, or the taking into the system of dead bodies of animals. There is such a growing demand for non-meat foods that this need will in the natural course of events be supplied.

Such a bouillon has already been found, composed wholly of vegetables, yet quite satisfying to the appetite which has formed the stimulating taste.

And other foods will follow.

One of the most intellectual men of the writer's acquaintance, a man who has made a place for himself as an inventor (and who is on the eve of reaping the reward of a great invention), is a strict vegeturian and has been for many years.

It has been urged by some writers, that we take life when we pluck vegetables, or fruit, or berries, or nuts, for our sustenance; as all life is one, and all things suffer to some extent when taken from their natura element.

But while there is no doubt truth in this idea, it is somewhat far fetched as a comparison.

One cannot help feeling, that he is more merciful when he takes the potato from the earth, or the apple from the tree, than when he takes the young lamb from its mother and sends it to the slaughter-house to undergo untold misery in transportation, and unmentionable horrors in the slaughter pen.

It is impossible for one who has become aware of the sickening details of animal and fowl transportation, and killing, to eat meat of any kind without an accusing conscience which speaks in a still small voice, asking if this means of sustenance is necessary for the maintaining of life and strength.

And it is impossible to think much on the subject without growing more and more convinced, that another century will find the meat diet almost a thing of the past, and new foods, products of the earth, and the orchards, and vines, and of discoveries of new properties in the elements, supplying the place of corpses of our lesser kin.

A Little Tribute to a Great Reporter

Clement L. Pollock Was MORE Than a Great Reporter; In Many Respects He Was a Great MAN—His Career Stands as a High Example to All Who Have Been Associated With Him in the Daily Production of the AMERICAN

It is eminently proper and fitting AND JUST that the AMERICAN should take due notice of the LIFE AND CHARACTER of the late Clement L. Pollock.

Pollock was a GREAT REPORTER, a GREAT NEWSPAPER MAN. They are by no means so many as may be supposed. He had the rare ability to SEE THINGS, the much more unusual gift of being able to tell others WHAT HE HAD SEEN.

Every day found him eager, fresh, enthusiastic for his work, always the most important in the news of the day. And his stories were all of them so generally excellent that it was hard to tell where he surpassed. Thus he shone at a national convention, delighted New England with his stories of the crowd at the World's Series, entertained his readers with the romantic side of a news item culled from the happenings of a day, or turned off a delightful poem built upon some whim of the hour.

He was proud of his calling, proud of HIS kind of journalism—the AMERICAN'S kind—ready and able to defend it at any time and in any place against those who, having accepted the shilling of the Money Power, are ready to decry and asperse the NEWSPAPERS OF THE PEOPLE.

Pollock was loyal—loyal to his newspaper, loyal to his employer, loyal to his friends—truly a legion and mostly of his own calling—who are today awakening as from a dream and recognizing "the great worth of the treasure which God had so long left in the midst of them."

Every reporter, every special writer, has his own little tribute to pay to Clement L. Pollock. The youngest tell of his helpful suggestions; the oldest of his compliments on work well done. ALL tell of his GOOD EXAMPLE, a preachment more persuasive than argument.

And all recall ONE MARKED CHARACTERISTIC: He was pure of heart, clean of speech.

Genial in manner and in temper, always ready to aid the beginner, never excited, never irritable, the soul of loyalty, an indefatigable worker, Clement Pollock will be missed not only by the wife and son, to whom he was devoted, but by this newspaper, by his friends in and out of the profession, and, the AMERICAN feels justified in saying, by thousands upon thousands of New Englanders who knew him only through his work.

Pollock came to Boston with the establishment of the AMERICAN. He had been here ever since. Pollock's desk, Pollock's genial smile, Pollock's friendly word, Pollock's daily stunt, these were features which NOTHING WAS TO CHANGE.

Nothing, as now appears, save only relentless Death.

In wisdom, experience, judgment, SEVENTY, AT LEAST; in his heart, in his boyish enthusiasm, TWENTY-ONE; in the body a TRIFLE OVER FORTY.

His life reflected lustre on the character of the journalist. His career will ever stand a high example to all who have been associated with him.

Keep Warm—Old People and Children Especially

it will fail to serve you in another. Here are suggestions for you, for children, and for old people especially.

Above all things, BE WARM AT NIGHT. Have fresh air in your room—but no draughts. When the window is open, turn the head of the bed toward the window, so that the cold air will not blow on you.

Mr. Connor very truly suggests, and we endorse his suggestion, that if your bed is a brass or iron bed, you should throw a quilt or a blanket over the top of the bed turned toward the window, so that the wind may not blow through.

Most of what we tell you now we have told you before, but truth bears repeating, and in this case it may save life.

Children and delicate people should not sleep in cold sheets. On cold nights put them between the blankets. Do not sleep with the feet bare in the coldest weather. Cover them up with woollen stockings. Protect the big blood vessels at the ankles. Have a nightgown with LONG sleeves that come down and cover the wrists well. Have it high in the neck, and securely buttoned.

DON'T BE ASHAMED TO WEAR SOME KIND OF A NIGHTCAP, IF YOU CATCH COLD EASILY, OR IF YOU HAPPEN TO BE BALD. Put a towel around your head if you wake up sneezing.

In the daytime remember that wristlets are highly important for children playing outdoors and apt to stand still in the cold. Put them on when they go out [illegible] take them off when they come in.

Wear them yourse[illegible] pair of wristlets sometimes will do more to keep the body warm and ward off disease than a heavy overcoat.

"The blood is the life," and heat is the life of the blood.

We repeat what we have told you before, TAKE CARE OF YOUR PLUMBING. You protect the lead pipes in your house against freezing. Protect your blood vessels—those in the body, neck, wrists and ankles especially—against cold.

Never allow your children to get into a cold bed. A big bottle of hot water put at the children's feet may save you a good many doctors' bills, and perhaps a funeral.

Cold is a friend of the disease germ and the enemy of life. Fight
